MOTOR COACH DRIVER ROBBED BY LONE THIEF

Holdup Man Takes $50 at Point of Pistol and Flees.

AUTO AIDS ESCAPE BY PREARRANGEMENT

Robber Had Boarded Bus Earlier in Day and Changed $10.

NORTHEAST SECTION IS SCENE OF CRIME

In a crime characterized by police as the first of its kind ever perpetrated here, a motor coach of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. was held up at 7 o'clock last night at Gallaudet and Kendall streets northeast by a young, well-dressed Negro, who robbed the driver, the only other occupant, of approximately $50.

Charles C. Rector, 30 years old, of 1518 A street southeast, the driver, immediately telephoned Twelfth Precinct police, who scoured the neighborhood in vain for the man, woh disappeared in a large touring car driven by another Negro.

"This colored man," declared Rector, "got on the bus about noon at Fifteenth and N streets northeast, handing me a $10 bill, which I changed from money I had in a wallet in my back pocket. About 7 o'clock at night the same man hopped on the bus at Gallaudet and Kendall streets, a block from the corner where my last passenger had alighted.

Poked Gun in His Ribs.

"The Negro dropped his fare in the box, sat down directly behind me and a moment later poked a pistol in my ribs, saying 'I want all the money you've got, but don't make a move or I'll shoot.' He reached down in my pocket and took the wallet, containing $35 of my own money and about $15 of the company's money.

"He told me to give him the keys to the fare box, or else he'd blow my brains out. I told him the keys were at the coach barn. He ordered me to stop, and when the door opened he jumped out. A touring car, with its motor running, was there and he hopped in. The car, which appeared to be carrying Maryland tags, speeded away. I immediately telephoned police from a residence in the same block.

Gives Description of Robber.

"The man was young, somewhere along about 20 to 22 years old, of slight build, but unusually well dressed. I couldn't see what the driver of the machine looked like, except that

Man Never Married Asks for Divorce

Bethesda Resident Charges Desertion to Woman He Lived With.

Alleging desertion, Joseph Capozio, of Bethesda, Md., yesterday asked that he be granted an absolute divorce from Mrs. Amelia S. Capozio, of Hoboken, N. J., who, he says he never married. The petition was filed in Circuit Court at Rockville yesterday by Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, of Rockville.

The petition states that the Capozios lived as man and wife for a number of years in Montgomery County and that there are five children resultant from the union. The suit also charges that Mr. Capozio's "wife" deserted him in September, 1926.

Mr. Capozio last night declined to make any statement on the action. His attorney could not be located but legal authorities say that a couple who decide to live together as husband and wife in certain States, including New York, are as legally married as though a ceremony had been performed and the marriage is recognizable by other States as requiring a divorce.

Four Are Under Arrest In Elizabethton Strike

Elizabethton, Tenn., March 14 (A. P.).—Three men were in prison here today after dynamite was alleged to have been found in their possession and another was held on complaint of a taxicab driver that his car was fired upon as he took workers to a rayon mill where labor disturbances have occurred recently.

Magistrate R. T. Johnson said no charges had been filed against the men but that county authorities were investigating. Their names were given as C. Taylor, Wilbur Jones, James Stewart and Lewis Young, all of Elizabethton.

New Oil Denaturant To Be Put in Alcohol

CHURCH OPPRESSION BY REDS IS HALTED

PENALTIES ARE PROVIDED

Moscow, March 15 (Saturday) (A. P.).—The central committee of the Communist party, which formulates the policies of the Russian government, today issued sweeping orders against the forcible closing of churches, mosques, or synagogues, without the consent of the overwhelming majority of the population in each case, and the formal sanction of the central authorities.

Village officials or party workers found guilty of jeering or deriding the peasants for their religious beliefs will be severely punished.

The committee pointed out that in some cases local officials attempted to justify the closing of churches by saying that it had been done "by the voluntary desire of the population."

Condemning recent wholesale closing of markets, bazaars and stores, the committee ordered that all such places be immediately reopened. Peasants, including members of the collective farms set up by the State, are in no way to be prevented from freely selling their products in open market.

Village officials are forbidden under pain of severe punishment to use force in recruiting peasants for the collective farms. Those who err in this respect will be dismissed from their posts.

Such acts as closing churches without consent of a majority of the population, tearing down church bells, use of force, violence or harsh administrative measures in converting individual farms into collective

10-CENT FARE PLEA IS DENIED BY COURT

Injunction for Higher Rate Pending Review Hearing Refused by Wheat.

PETITIONS TO BE HEARD

Justice Alfred A. Wheat in District Supreme Court yesterday refused to grant a temporary injunction which would have permitted the two traction companies to charge a 10-cent cash fare pending hearing on their petitions for a review of the Public Utilities Commission's action in denying them the right to add 2 more cents to the present 8-cent cash fare.

The action of the justice which was taken on two petitions filed by the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. has the effect of shoving the bugaboo of the 10-cent fare into the background for the time at least.

Justice Wheat, however, did not pass on the merits of the two petitions, and hearing on those phases probably will not be had until late summer or early fall, due to the congested condition of the Equity Court docket.

The opinion was, in effect, a victory and a defeat for both the two traction companies and the Utilities Commission, for, in addition to denying the injunction, the justice also denied the motion of the commission to dismiss the petitions.

Had Justice Wheat granted the temporary injunction as prayed for by the companies it would have permitted them to charge the increased fare immediately.

Each sought to have the commission restrained from interfering with their putting into effect the new

Jackson, Miss., March 14 (A.P.).—By exercise of his pardoning power, Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo today blocked the Mississippi House of Representatives in its attempt to jail a witness who refused to give the facts of an $80,000 distribution to stop an anti-trust suit against a road material concern.

The House voted 111 to 10 to send Carl Marshall, Gulf Coast attorney, to jail, because he refused to testify in full about the deal, but before the writ could be served on the lawyer, Gov. Bilbo issued him a full pardon.

Taken by surprise, the House adjourned until Monday to look up the law. Meantime Marshall was free, but the investigating committee, headed by Representative Sam Anderson, will search for a legal opening around the governor's pardon.

NIGHT SESSION FAILS IN FIXING LEATHER LEVY

Senate Indulges in Five Hours of Fruitless Debate on Duty.

WILL MEET TODAY TO RENEW BATTLE

ODDIE ATTEMPTS COMPROMISE PLAN

Borah Resumes Arguments Against Placing of Rates on Hides.

The obstacles in the way of an equitable distribution of tariff protection to the hide, leather and shoe industry threw the Senate tariff framers last night again into an apparently hopeless snarl.

After five hours of acrimonious debate the question was put off until today without a decision, and, as a brief session is in prospect, then it is highly improbable that a settlement will be reached before next week.

More than a month ago the Senate voted, 46 to 28, to keep hides, leathers and shoes o nthe free list after repeated futile attempts to arrive at duties on the latter two which the hide protectionists would approve.

The Old, Old Story.

Last night it was the same story over and over again. Senator Oddie (Republican, Nevada, in an attempt to compromise, proposed an amendment calling for duties of 4 and 8 cents a pound, respectively, on green and cured hides and varying combination rates on leathers and shoes.

Although no part of this proposal had been acted upon at adjournment shortly after 10 o'clock, two of a series of modifications proposed by Senator Howell (Republican), Nebraska, were pruned down.

The first proposal of 5 and 9 cents respectively on green and cured hides was rejected 42 to 25. The second calling for a rate of 6 cents a pound and 5 4-10 per cent on sole leather instead of the Oddie rates of 6 cents and 10 per cent lost by 34 to 32.

Senator Howell described the entire Oddie proposition as a "surrender" instead of a "compromise."

Not Viewed as Test.

Neither of the votes was viewed as a test because only a small part of the entire proposal was before the Senate for decision.

Senator Borah, (Republican), Idaho, who succeeded over a month ago in keeping all three commodities on the free list because he said that protection proposed for leathers and shoes would so raise prices as to offset any benefit the cattle growers would derive from the hide duty, made the same argument last night. Others of the hide block supported this view.

"I will vote for free hides rather than see duties placed on leathers and shoes which will take away the farmers' protection," Senator Borah said. He agreed the leather industry was in a depressed state, but said he was not sure a tariff would provide a remedy.

Disagreeing with Senator Borah's view, Senator Frazier, (Republican), North Dakota, asserted if the farmer is to benefit by a hide tariff, he must have some cattle to sell.

Walsh in Disagreement.

"Unless a farmer has two or three head of cattle for every member of his family," he added, "this tariff is not going to do him any god. If the farmer in Idaho or Nebraska doesn't sel lenough cattle to pay for the shoes he busy, then—Good night!"

Senator Oddie and Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, disagreed as to the effect the former's hide tariff would have on prices for shoes.

The former held it would have very little or no effect on the prices, while Former Tombs Chaplain Stresses Changes Law Has Made.

(Associated Press.)

Supporters of prohibition completed their second week of testimony against repeal of the eighteenth amendment yesterday, presenting to the House judiciary committee a picture of improved conditions among those who before prohibition were the world's outcasts.

In simple language, men whose life work has been in the rescue missions of New York and Philadelphia asked that the dry laws be kept unchanged or that they be strengthened.

They said great good had been brought by prohibition to those who live in the Bowery in New York and similar sections of the great cities.

Changes Are Narrated.

An amazing change has been wrought, in the opinion of John Callahan, who for sixteen years was chaplain of Tombs Prison, in New York, and is often referred to as the "Bishop of the Bowery" because of his 25 years of work with the Hadley Rescue Mission.

He was seconded in this by John R. McIntyre, superintendent of the Whosoever Gospel Mission of Germantown, Pa.; John W. Helmbold, of Camden, N. J., and Frank Dippel, of Philadelphia, mission workers.

The committee also heard Raymond Robins, Chicago Social Worker, who held that repeal had not a "Chinaman's chance" because the major political parties are dry and "dare not be otherwise."

Research Report Cited.

Ralph H. White, of New Haven, Conn., concluded yesterday's hearing by presenting results of research done for the fact-finding committee on law enforcement in Connecticut, with the conclusions that drinking had lessened in high schools and colleges and that prohibition laws were easy to enforce in his State.

At the outset of the hearing, Chairman Graham announced that the remarks of Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, of Beverly, Mass., which resulted Thursday in the charge by Representative Celler (Democrat), New York, that she was coaching women witnesses, would remain in the record.

The Massachusetts dry leader, Mr. Graham, said he had examined the record containing her remarks to witnesses on the stand and she did not wish to change them. The Celler charge resulted in sudden adjournment of the committee Thursday after members accused him of insulting Mrs. Peabody.

Dollar Issues Denial.

An effort was made by Representative Dyer (Republican), Missouri, yesterday to introduce a telegram from Robert Dollar denying that his ships carried bars and liquor, as charged yesterday by Representative La Guardia (Republican), New York, but the chairman would not permit it read, holding that a witness had the floor at the time.

Mr. Robins brought to the committee an echo of the last presidential campaign with the statement that Alfred E. Smith was defeated because he had become the "country's chief nullifier" by signing the repeal of the New York State prohibition act.

The committee members smiled as Mr. Callahan told of the "Tub of Gang Chief Nears End of Term in Pennsylvania Penitentiary.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 14 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—Al Capone, scar-faced gang boss, said today that he is going back to Chicago, back to the racket empire which may or may not have been carved up and parceled out among his rivals, when he is turned out of Eastern Penitentiary here Monday morning after a year's imprisonment on the whimsical charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

"I've never run away from anything yet," he explained mildly. "That's where my home is, and that's where I have most of my business interests."

There was not even a suspicion of a smile on his broad, good-natured face as he employed this bland phrase:

"And there's no reason why I shouldn't go back there."

And apparently he meant what he said, for, although his wife and the 10-year-old son he loves with all the extravagant emotion of a Southern Italian are at his big Star Island home at Miami, and although he is reputed to have made arrangements to go there at once, by motor to Quintuple Treaty Hinges on Answer of Tardieu When He Returns.

RECESSION NEEDED TO SAVE CONFERENCE

Three-Power Agreement Is Talked Of if France and Italy Quit.

U. S. PUSHES SLASH IN BRITAIN'S FIGURES

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, March 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The London naval conference is anxiously awaiting the arrival here tomorrow of the French prime minister, Andre Tardieu, from whom some definite indication is expected as to whether France will give way on her naval demands or stick to them, even if doing so means elimination of all possibility of a five-power treaty providing real naval limitation.

M. Tardieu's scheduled visit with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at Chequers may resolve the fate of the conference, at any rate of the five-power part of it.

It is now recognized and frankly admitted by our own most intelligent negotiators that any five-power treaty other than a meaningless one appears impossible unless Great Britain makes some security offer to France, and such an offer is politically impossible for Mr. MacDonald.

Three-Power Pact Hoped For.

There appears to be some divergence of opinion among the American delegates as to whether, failing a five-power pact, a three-power treaty is worth while. This difference of opinion goes deep, but the dominating view at present is that a three-power treaty is to be negotiated if wider aims fail of realization.

It is admitted that this would have to include a clause permitting higher building than the Rapidan figures authorize if Great Britain feels menaced by the French program.

During the next phase of the conference the Americans will, therefore, fight hard to get the British figures down from those which the admiralty wishes. A claim for 50,000 tons more of submarines and 35,000 tons more of cruisers on the part of Great Britain, including three extra 8-inch-gun craft, will, however, be recognized by the United States rather than admit complete failure. American parity figures will be hoisted accordingly to take their chances in the Senate, according to the policy now favored in the highest American quarter.

U. S. Opposes Useless Treaty.

It can be stated on authority that the United States delegation does not want a meaningless five-power treaty in which France, and perhaps Italy, would sign clauses about the unthinkability of war and agree on a method of future naval limitation without coming into line with the other three nations in limiting building on an agreed basis satisfactory to the United States.

While awaiting M. Tardieu's arrival, the conference took a day off, excepting for a 40-minute talk between Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi. Boredom and quiescence have temporarily succeeded the tension of the last few days, for M. Briand has made it clear that he has shot his bolt and has little more to say and that M. Tardieu will now speak for France.

M. Briand and Signor Grandi, having already found themselves unable to progress, confined much of their talk today to discussion of the past history of the conference. But an interesting point arose when they debated whether France and Italy can

U. S. RUM RING LINK WITH CANADA IS HIT

OFFICIAL VIEW STATED

Ottawa, Ont., March 14 (A.P.).—Canadian government officials now act as the connecting link between distilleries and United States bootleggers, a practice which the people of Canada want to abolish, Premier Mackenzie King asserted today during the second reading of his bill to prohibit clearance of liquor to a country where its sale is prohibited.

The purpose of his bill, the premier explained, is to eliminate such a condition of affairs and to prevent countenancing by officials of anything in the nature of smuggling contraband into another country. He said that under the present system revenue agents knew when liquor would fall into the hands of rumrunners, because the release permits stated such facts.

"In other words," the premier said, "the present system is found to afford a link between the brewery and distillery and the criminal gang.

"This country can not afford to have its position capable of interpretation in any such light by any country in the world.

"Such a condition is distasteful to the people of Canada and has only been tolerated as long as it has because of the failure to realize this aspect of the situation."

The premier's proposed amendment to the export act would prohibit release from warehouse or distillery of liquor destined for the United States or other prohibition countries and would make it illegal for clearance papers to be granted to any liquor-laden vessel bound for ports in any such country.

"This is a Canadian measure," he said, "relating exclusively to Canada. In no particular can the bill be considered as a prohibition or temper-

SUBMARINE PIRACY CLAUSE IS ARGUED

Stimson Seeks Opinions of John Bassett Moore and Elihu Root.

OBJECTIONS ARE CITED

London, March 14 (A.P.).—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson has sought the opinions of two of America's most eminent jurists on the proposal to inject the so-called "piracy" clause in the naval conference treaty for the humanization of submarine warfare.

It was learned tonight that the Secretary had cabled Elihu Root and John Bassett Moore, asking their opinions on the value of this clause, which was contained in a similar treaty drafted at Washington but never ratified by the French.

Mr. Stimson feels that the clause should be retained in the new treaty now being discussed and as far as possibe drafted, but he has needed the advice of some of his delegates and advisers opposed to its retention and has decided to seek the most expert advice obtainable. The replies of Mr. Root, who was the author of the Washington treaty and has been steadfastly in favor of the piracy clause, and of Mr. Moore are expected in London over the week-end.

The American delegation, after receiving them, will be able to shape a definite policy toward this clause.

In addition to certain American delegates opposing it, the French delegation and the British admiralty are also understood to object to it. The Japanese would approve it, and the Italians, though noncommittal, would probably follow the lead of the Americans.

Under the piracy clause a neutral nation would be permitted, and, indeed, almost obligated, to try for piracy and severely punish a submarine captain who had attacked one of its ships and then been forced to seek refuge in one of its ports.

This is the ground for one of the chief objections brought by the op-

Reds at City Schools Defy Order to Salute U. S. Flag

Masons of District Called Upon to Combat Spread of Communism.

As youthful Communists asserted their defiance yesterday of the order of school authorities to salute the flag, Masons of the District heard a call to combat Communism in the schools. Masonry was urged to do its part in stultifying the growth of radicalism in the schools by the articulation of American principles and in stemming the flood of undesirable immigrants from Russia.

Masonry's call was sounded at the annual banquet last night of the advisory board of the Masonic Clubs of the District at Picardi's Restaurant. Edgar C. Snyder, marshal of the District, exhorted the 150 listeners to realarm the precepts of Americanism and defend American ideals against the subversive activities of Communism.

consent to the battleship holiday which the United States, Great Britain and Japan have in mind. The German pocket battleship, the Ersatz Preussen, was mentioned. It is gathered that M. Briand felt unable to offer any opinion that France will not build one or two new capital ships in the near future and referred Signor Grandi to M. Tardieu.

Reed and Matsudaira Talk.

Senator David A. Reed saw Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira once more this morning. Contrary to reports current there is no American-Japanese agreement in prospect at present, but the chiefs of our delegations are not worried about Japan. They decline to discuss the basis of negotiations in progress, but it is gathered that the United States has now offered Japan nearly parity in submarines, about 58,000 tons, and a ratio of one or two points less than 70 per cent in global tonnage.

But on the big cruiser position the United States has not budged from the offer to allow Japan more than 70 per cent during the life of the treaty it is hoped to negotiate here, provided Japan will not build against the three American cruisers to be commissioned after 1936.

Japan, it is understood, is now willing to deal on the present basis provided she gets her 70 per cent for five years, and reserves the right to raise the issue again at the next conference. The United States opposes this, however.

SUBMARINE PIRACY OPINIONS SOUGHT

ponents of the clause. They argue it would be impossible for a neutral to carry out such a provision in the treaty without actually involving itself in the war, since the belligerent to whom the submarine belonged would immediately feel called upon to declare war on the neutral.

This question, it is pointed out, arose frequently during the World War in connection with Spain. Cases were reported in which German submarine captains, who had sunk Spanish merchantmen, were later forced to seek food and fuel in Spanish ports. In one case, at Santander, the police were obliged to protect a submarine crew from an angry Spanish mob.

The objectors in the American delegation likewise assert that there were several cases on record during the World War where a submarine captain was able to claim that he had been menaced by the ship he had halted.

As one prominent American diplomat expressed it: "How can it be determined whether the submarine commander is a pirate when a case arises in which a passenger or sailor aboard the halted vessels, in the excitement of the moment, hurls some missile or fires a revolver at the submarine? After such a happening the commander of a submarine, demanding the right to search for contraband, might, fearing for the lives of his crew, order the ship sunk."

The ever present possibility of reprisals under the piracy clause is considered by its opponents to be one of strongest arguments against it. The Americans opposing it have laid before Secretary Stimson many cases in which the war-time submarine campaign of the Germans apparently brought about reprisals in the prison camps of the allies.

In the whole question of policy, however, the opinion of Mr. Root and of Mr. Moore is expected to put the deciding weight in the balance between the opposing theses.

HOPES ARE RAISED BY LONDON REPORTS

Stimson Dispatches Check Gloom Here on Navy Parley Crisis.

DEFINITE DATA DENIED

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Hoover yesterday received reports from Secretary Stimson at London which injected new hope in the latest developments at the London naval conference. The nature of the information was not disclosed either by the President or by Acting Secretary of State Cotton.

But it was stated at the White House that Mr. Hoover believes the work at London is making progress and this optimistic statement coincided with a more hopeful view entertained late yesterday by Mr. Cotton. The latter was in frequent conference with the President during the afternoon and the latest dispatches from Mr. Stimson are understood to have been under discussion.

It now develops that Mr. Stimson does not regard the French demands with respect to tonnage as final nor does he believe that Italy or Japan will remain adamant. These demands are regarded as the so-called "irreducible minimuma" which are put forward with renewed vigor just before the processes of yielding and compromise begin. If the American delegation is correct in its diagnosis the crisis at London, which is being made the subject of gloomy foreboding, may subside within the next two or three days, according to the prevailing view at the State Department.

Information Is Denied.

All requests for specific information concerning Mr. Stimson's last reports were countered with the statement that nothing could be said now. It was clearly indicated that the negotiations had reached an extremely delicate stage and that any comment might do more harm than good.

Inquiries with respect to a possible three-power pact brought the reply yesterday that nothing could be said about this matter at this time. Heretofore, similar inquiries have brought the reply that no three-power pact was under consideration and that the American delegation would either negotiate a five-power pact or return home.

As a result of the reported opposition of the United States to a three-power pact, senators have become more determined in their opposition to such a treaty. This is based on the reports that the projected three-power pact would have a string attached to it permitting Great Britain to increase her naval building program in case France builds beyond a certain limit. According to the view in senatorial quarters such a pact would be worthless and would tend to create uncertainty as to how much America could build and would tend to accentuate ill-feeling between Great Britain and France.

Objections to Three-Power Pact.

As Senator Swanson, ranking Democratic member of the foreign relations committee and the naval committee, holds, such a pact would be objectionable in the sense that it would make the size and power of the American Navy dependent upon dictation from the British Admiralty.

Reports that Japan would insist upon concessions as the price of entering into a three-power pact have also been noted here. Any treaty, containing a surrender of America's position on the cruiser problem and concessions to Japan would have virtually no chance of weathering the storm in the Senate, it is stated. Pacific Coast senators say it is unthinkable for America to even consider such a proposition.

Hunt Launched for First Auto Permit of Capital

M. O. Eldridge, assistant director of traffic, yesterday broadcast an appeal for aid in a hunt for the first automobile operator's permit issued by the District.

The first permit was issued in May, 1903, and was of a much larger size than the present permits. Mr. Eldridge is making a collection of early District traffic records and wants the first permit to add to it. Even if he can't have the permit itself, he said, he would like at least a photograph of it.

TAX REFUND SYSTEM ATTACKED IN HOUSE

$33,555,000 Awarded to U. S. Steel Assailed by Democratic Leader.

FAVORITISM IS HINTED

(Associated Press.)

Basing his attack on the award of a $33,555,000 tax refund to the United States Steel Corporation, announced earlier in the day, Representative Garner, the House Democratic leader, yesterday assailed the present method of deciding tax refund cases and demanded a congressional investigation.

The Texan said the steel corporation alone had been allowed over assessments totalling $97,717,848 for the tax years 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920. These cases should be decided in the courts, he maintained, advocating a $25,000 salary for a special attorney to handle the situation.

The $33,555,000 refund was announced yesterday by Chairman Hawley, of the joint committee on internal revenue legislation, which under present law must pass on proposed refunds involving more than $75,000 proposed by the Internal Revenue Bureau. Mr. Hawley was not in the chamber when Mr. Garner spoke and no other representative answered his remarks.

Attack Directed at Mellon.

Representative Garner attacked Secretary Mellon for the manner in which tax refund cases from Pennsylvania had been decided, saying "There are more refunds made in the State of Pennsylvania than any other State.

"One of three things must undoubtedly have occurred in Pennsylvania," he said, "either they are the most generous tax payers of any State, rendering more taxes to the Government than they owe to it, or else they are the most ignorant people and do not know how to make out their tax returns, or, third, they are the most favored people in making out their tax refunds.

"I ask you which one of these three things it is."

After reading from a list of Pennsylvania companies that have received refunds, the Texan said, "Corporations in which we know the Secretary of the Treasury has a large interest and which are controlled by his family, are making these compromises in the Treasury Department.

Says Favoritism Shown.

"Secretary Mellon makes a compromise with President Mellon of some company. Gentlemen, it is not right. I believe if you will look into it you will find that favoritism has been shown. In order to show favoritism to his own companies he establishes a policy that gives favoritism to similar companies doing business throughout the country."

Swinging his attack to Mr. Hawley the Texan charged the Oregonian with failure to explain to the House the circumstances surrounding the steel corporation refund. He contended the joint committee had not given proper consideration to the refund, saying Mr. Hawley was the only Republican present at the hearings and that the Oregonian had proxies throughout for all but one of the Republican members. The exception, he said, was Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, who is in Europe.

FALL AID TESTIFIES IN TRIAL OF DOHENY

DENBY TESTIMONY READ

Testimony intended by the Government to show that Edward L. Doheny conspired with Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior in the Harding Cabinet, to get possession of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve was introduced yesterday in Mr. Doheny's trial on a charge of giving Mr. Fall a $100,000 bribe.

E. C. Finney, solicitor of the Interior Department and first Assistant Secretary under Mr. Fall, testified that Mr. Fall personally executed the lease which gave the Elk Hills reserve to Mr. Doheny's Pan American Co. Mr. Fall ordinarily did not handle oil leases, he said, that being done by himself and other subordinates. He testified that this lease and one granted the Mammoth Oil Co., controlled by Harry F. Sinclair, were the only ones executed by Mr. Fall.

Earlier in the day the defense scored when Justice William Hitz sustained its objection to the introduction of a letter written by Mr. Fall to the Senate oil commitee, in which the Cabinet officer said that he had received $100,000 from Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher. The letter was offered by the prosecution in an effort to show that Mr. Fall, in writing the untrue statement was attempting to shield Mr. Doheny, who had sent him the $100,000 in cash.

The Government introduced the transcript of the testimony of Mr. Doheny before the Senate oil committee in 1924, at which time he appeared and told of sending Mr. Fall $100,000 in cash as a loan for which he received the cabinet officer's note. This testimony showed that Mr. Doheny had told the committee that he expected to employ Mr. Fall after he had resigned from the cabinet and had expressed the opinion that he believed Mr. Fall would have favored him if he could have, after the receipt of the loan.

The prosecutors also read testimony of the late Edwin Denby, former Secretary of the Navy, to show that he knew little of the lease made to Mr. Doheny. The Government emphasized those sections concerning Mr. Fall's efforts to hide the source of his money and Mr. Doheny's failure to produce the note Mr. Fall had given him, though he had all of it except the signature in his pocket.

After Mr. Finney took the stand, the Government introduced the contract for constructing naval oil storage at Pearl Harbor. This contained a clause giving Mr. Doheny's company a preferential right to any lease which the Government decided to make in the Elk Hills Reserve. This clause resulted in the reserve being leased to the Pan-American Co. nine months later.

Mr. Finney was being cross-examined when court recessed for the day. He is expected to remain on the stand for most of the morning session today. The Government plans to rest its case some time Monday.

Two Girl Vagrants To Leave Capital

Alleged Former Members of Kit Kat Club Plead Guilty in Court.

Margaret H. Smedley and Marjorie Lombard, both of whom have aliases and are said to be members of the notorious Kit Kat Club in Maryland, drew suspended sentences in Police Court yesterday when they pleaded guilty to charges of vagrancy. Judge Ralph E. Given suspended the sentences of $300 or 30 days in jail on condition that the girls would leave Washington immediately.

The arrest of the two girls is said to have followed efforts of the Police Detective Bureau of break up plans of the members of the club to congregate in Washington. The club was raided and disorganized some time ago following an investigation by agents of the Department of Justice.

Several other persons, said to be members of the club, have been arrested here, and some of them, it is said, are still being held for investigation. Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, head of the police homicide squad, is said to be the man back of the efforts to keep the Kit Kats from setting up an establishment in Washington, but Detectives B. C. Keuhling and A. T. Fihelly appeared as the complainants against the two girl vagrants.

Bankruptcy Plea Is Filed.

Stanley J. Deroski, trading as the Ninth Street Garage, at 1234 and 1236 Ninth street northwest, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to adjudge him a voluntary bankrupt. Assets of $2,174.25 and liabilities of $6,245.86 are listed. Attorney James J. Slattery appears for the petitioner.

Failure to Lock Auto Causes Driver's Arrest

Mr. Motorist, did you know you could be arrested for failing to lock your automobile?

It's an old, seldom-invoked law, but First Precinct Policeman S. F. Smith dusted it off yesterday afternoon and slapped the charge against Dr. Robert B. Pearson, 36 years old, a dentist, of Girard street near Eleventh street northwest, as he was alighting from his machine at Seventh and D streets northwest.

Dr. Pearson posted $2 collateral and said he would forfeit the money instead of appearing to defend the charge. The Traffic Bureau announced last night that this was the first case of its kind in many months.

INCOME TAXES AID TREASURY BALANCE

STOCK CRASH MAY HURT

(Associated Press.)

Income tax payments were flowing into internal revenue collection offices yesterday in large sums, today being March 15 and the last date on which the first quarter of 1930 private and corporate income taxes can be paid.

The Treasury Department, however, was without any figure on the receipts so far. At the same time the Government, in anticipation of the great sums which are coming in, allowed its cash balance on hand to run down to one of the lowest points recently recorded.

The Treasury return for March 12—the latest day for which Government accounts were completed — showed $665,231.04 on hand instead of the usual total running into scores of millions which is kept to meet Federal requirements.

The returns from the March 15 payments were being anxiously awaited, since upon them will hinge the question whether the Government can bring its finances through this fiscal year without a deficit. In March last year the quarterly income tax brought in $601,000,000, and if the amount is equaled this year it is expected that the Treasury will be able to balance the Government's income against its outgo.

However, the collapse of stock market speculation late last year may cut the income tax radically. There was only one slight indication on this point in figures available yesterday, which arose because income tax receipts for the first twelve days of March were reported as $30,965,333, against $37,701,208 in the same period last year.

These figures, if projected throughout the month, would indicate that income tax receipts this March might fall 20 per cent below those of 1929, which would bring the March payment to $100,000,000 or more below that collected in March last year. Officially the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Bureau refused to make any calculation, since it is improbable that collectors will be able to report until some time next week on the totals received in their districts.

Sewer Contracts Awarded.

Contract for the construction of two sewers were awarded yesterday by the District Commissioners to the Warren F. Brenizer Co. Both sewers are to be constructed in Tilden street northwest, a storm-water sewer running between Rock Creek and Twenty-ninth street to cost $22,269.69. A sanitary sewer will be built between Rockwood parkway and Fordham road to cost $6,190.56. The Brenizer Co. was low bidder.

HUSTON IS RECALLED FOR LOBBY HEARING

Tells of Depositing $36,100 of Company's Money to Own Account.

(Associated Press.)

After testifying yesterday that he had deposited in his personal brokerage account $36,100 which he had collected last year from the Union Carbide Co. for the Tennessee River Improvement Association, Claudius M. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, was directed by the Senate lobby committee to reappear next Tuesday for further questioning about the account.

Mr. Huston, in his third day's testimony before the committee, told of the collection of this amount and emphasized that all of the money had been turned over to the association. He was questioned sharply by Senators Black (Democrat), Alabama, and Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, as to why he deposited the money in his brokerage account.

"It is very customary instead of carrying money in a bank," Mr. Huston explained, "to carry it with your brokers, because of the fact that they will do whatever you want to do with more flexibility than a bank will do it."

Summoned to Return.

Some time after he had been excused by the committee another summons was sent to him to return on Tuesday. Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, said he wanted to inquire further into the exact use of the Union Carbide Co. distribution by Mr. Huston.

The witness, a former president of the Tennessee Association, which has advocated the proposal of the American Cyanamid Co., to lease Muscle Shoals, said the money had been "put into some particular account" he had with the brokers, and that he had not told the brokers what it was for because "it was none of their business."

Questioned sharply by members of the committee about the account, he said that whenever money was to be sent to J. W. Worthington, chairman of the executive committee of the association, the brokerage firm was instructed to make the remittance.

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, asked Mr. Huston if he did not "distinguish between a personal account of money that belongs to you personally and an account that belongs to somebody else that is in a nature of a trust fund."

"Oh, yes; I have that much intelligence," Mr. Huston replied.

To Give Full Details.

"But here you are turning over money in a trust fund that belongs to somebody else to that broker," Senator Blaine continued. He addded that the money, which he said belonged to the Tennessee River Improvement Association, was in the nature of a trust fund.

"Assuming I was an agent and ultimately put the money in the hands of Col. Worthington," Mr. Huston interjected. "I was an agent and I did do that job, and I did it to a penny. That is all there is to it that I know of, but I am going to get you the facts in the fullest detail."

Questioned about a previous statement he had made to the effect that he and President Hoover had held different opinions about the disposition of Muscle Shoals, Mr. Huston said he had regarded the proposal of Henry Ford "a wonderful offer," while President Hoover, who then was Secretary of Commerce, "thought it might be improved somewhat."

Senator Black asked him about the proposal of the Cyanamid Co., which now is before Congress.

"I think that is the same situation," he responded, adding that Mr. Hoover had committed himself to no plan for disposing of Muscle Shoals.

Inquest Is Scheduled In Gas Victim's Death

An inquest will be held at 10 o'clock this morning into the death of Henry Lampke, 63 years old, who was found in a gas-filled room at a rooming house on G street near Sixth street northwest early yesterday morning.

Police are investigating papers found in Lampke's possession indicating that he was a former prohibition agent due to face trial on charges of running liquor. George T. Henderson, owner of the house where Lampke died, told police that the man had recounted colorful tales of rum running. He had been drinking a few hours prior to his death, police of the Sixth Precinct said that they had discovered.

Young Hoover Finishes His Writings in Camp

Completing several magazine articles and radio talks which he had attempted in vain amid the bustle of the White House, Herbert Hoover, jr., returned to his father's home yesterday after a two-day stay at Secretary Richey's fishing camp near Catoctin Furnace, Md. Accompanied only by a caretaker, the young vice president of the Western Air Express, of Los Angeles, completed his writing assignments in short order.

It is expected that within the next few weeks the President will renew his week-end trips to his Rapidan camp, where he is understood to be planning the installation of a fish hatchery, with the assistance of Henry O'Malley, United States commissioner of fisheries.

GRAND JURY FLAYS DRUG AGENT SHIFTS

ANSLINGER RAP HINTED

New York, March 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Charges that officials in Washington have punished narcotic agents who rendered valuable assistance to the Federal grand jury drug inquiry here, and that the effect of this action has been generally "demoralizing," are contained in a letter of protest sent to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon by the grnad jury which made the investigation.

This punishment, the grand jury states, has taken the form of transfer of the honest agents to remote, unimportant points, while those who failed to aid the inqury and who were "guilty of collusion" or "unpardonable stupidity," have been given what is described as "soft berths."

The letter, signed by the grand jury foreman and by the chairman of the grand jury committee which drew up the presentment which resulted in the recent shakeup, concludes with the statement that::

"It is not encouraging to business men to give nearly seven weeks of their time in an effort to correct abuses in the administration of the law, to learn that their conclusions and recommendations as to the principal offenders at least have been flouted and that they have been the innocent cause of capable men being indirectly disciplined."

Ralph Oyler, well known narcotic officer, who has held posts of importance all over the United States and who is now ordered to Honolulu with one man under him, and Raphael Connelly and Louis J. Kelly, special agents, now transferred respectively to Kansas City and Chicago, are named as those now "penalized for their frankness" by the "temperary head" of the Narcotic Bureau in Washington.

The acting head is not named in the protest but is understood to be Acting Commissioner Anslinger in Washington, who gave the orders which resulted in transfer of the agents.

SUSPECTS' WRITING COMPARED TO NOTE

POLICEMEN GUARD SHOP

Central Bureau detectives led by Lieut. Edward Kelly, of the homicide squad, yesterday were endeavoring to disperse the shadow of the Black Hand that has hovered across the path of Frank Sachs, automobile repair dealer, of 609 K street northwest, since he was robbed and beaten on the Defense highway Thursday.

A number of persons were questioned in connection with the case yesterday. They were all dismissed after lengthy grilling. Two of those questioned were booked on charges of investigation, but were later dismissed. Handwriting of the suspects was compared with that of the Black Hand letters which had been sent to Sachs threatening his life if he did not discontinue operation of an automobile glass repair shop.

Police of the Second Precinct are guarding the Sachs repair shop. Policeman Lester Parks, the first to be detailed, received a warning before going on duty that he "would be bumped off" unless he kept away from the Sachs establishment. Policeman Parks remained on duty until 4 o'clock, when he was relieved by Policeman Griggs, of the Second Precinct. Another policeman will guard the establishment from midnight until daylight.

The suspects questioned and released yesterday included a man who, Sachs told police, resembled the man who forced him to stop on Defense highway. This suspect was later discharged.

nounced that the Young Pioneers of Communism will be instructed by their leaders to refuse to obey any commands to pledge allegiance to the flag. Pioneers, it was learned, are students between the ages of 10 and 16; but their number is negligible.

Decision to flaunt the order of Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, came yesterday afternoon. Two Communists, who were arrested Thursday for distributing Communistic literature at the Macfarland Junior High School and who were later released, yesterday declared that they will continue their campaign.

In addition, offices and other business places in the city will be circularized by the Young Communist League.

Six Communists will go on trial today in the Police Court for conducting meetings without permits. All have avowed that they will serve jail sentences rather than pay fines.

At the trial today the members of the Communist party will be present to protest.

No demonstration, however, is planned for the trial. Regardless of the outcome of the hearing the Communists will continue to hold open-air meetings, with one scheduled for early next week, they said.

Two of the Communists, George Reed, 25, of Irving street near Park place northwest, and Thomas Holmes, 19, of Baltimore, who were serving ten days' sentence in the District Jail for illegal distribution of leaflets, have been released. Relatives of the two paid the fines of $10 imposed on each.

At the Masons' meeting, Mr. Snyder, holding aloft a copy of a leaflet which was distributed recently by Reds at the McFarland Junior High School, invoked the aid of his fellow Masons in fighting the menace. To subdue successfully "the subversive movement," he declared the pledge of allegiance to the flag should be repeated at least twice a week in all the District schools.

Capt. Cheney L. Bertholf, president of the National League of Masonic Clubs, held that one of the remedies for checking Communism lies in selective immigration. To this end, he said, the Foreign Service School at the George Washington University was established by Masonry to train men whose duty it would some day be to select prospective immigrants.

He called attention to the demonstrations on March 6 in front of the White House and the parades in other cities. Instigators of these demonstrations, he said, are Communists. At the present time, he said, there are more than a quarter of a million Russians seeking entry to this country. Russia's quota is 2,784 per year. By training men of the highest type for foreign service, he said, much of the undesirable aliens can be stopped at the source.

Other guests at the dinner were: James A. West, grand master of District Masons; John O. Bowen, State president of the National League of Masonic Clubs; Melville D. Hensey, third vice president of the league; and Lynn H. Troutman, past president of the league. Frank A. Birgfeld, president of the advisory board, was toastmaster.

Rum Suspect Held After Wild Chase

Policeman Seizes Quarry in Northeast Section Pursuit.

A wild chase through the Northeast section last night ended when Motorcycle Policeman G. M. Patton, of the Traffic Bureau, captured Stephen Jones, colored, 23 years old, of Second street near C street northeast, when the latter was said to have abandoned his automobile and fled six blocks on foot.

The policeman said he sighted Jones driving a car with no rear light on Eleventh street near Pennsylvania avenue northeast. A chase ensued. At Ninth street and Massachusetts avenue northeast the Negro was declared to have deserted the car and raced thhrough alleys to Eighth and A streets northeast, where he fell limp. The policeman reported finding five one-half-gallon jars of liquor in the car.

At the Ninth Precinct station the man was charged with transportation and possession, failure to show a rear light, failure to show a permit and speeding.

RAILROAD SPANNING U. S. NEAR REALTY

Van Sweringens Need Only One Link to Have First Coast-to-Coast Line.

STOCK CONTROL BOUGHT

Cleveland, March 14 (A.P.).—O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, Cleveland brothers, who entered the railroad industry as novices only fourteen years ago, tonight were in control of a network of railroads which, according to financial leaders here, are intended to become America's first transcontinental railroad system.

Only one line is lacking to give the Van Sweringens a complete coast-to-coast route, and the line needed is believed available. It is the Western Pacific from Salt Lake City to San Francisco.

Many great railroaders, including such men as Collis P. Huntington, Jay Gould and E. H. Harriman, tried in years gone by to build a transcontinental system, but the Van Sweringens are closer to attainment of that fond hope than was reached by any of the others.

The present position of the Van Sweringens was reached, it was revealed today, by recent quiet buying of sufficient stock and convertible bonds to give them or their holding companies a working control of the big system of the Missouri Pacific.

Already in control of several Eastern and central railroad systems, the Van Sweringens, by taking control of the Western Pacific, could establish a through coast-to-coast route. Railroad men said it probably would connect the following:

Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Buffalo to New York; Nickel Plate, Buffalo to St. Louis; Missouri Pacific, St. Louis to Pueblo; Denver, Rio Grande & Western, Pueblo to Salt Lake City, and Western Pacific, from Salt Lake City to San Francisco.

The financial connection of the Van Sweringens with the Denver, Rio Grande & Western is through the Missouri Pacific, which owns half its stock. The same roads give the Cleveland magnates a "friendly contact" with the Western Pacific, for it also is half owner of the Denver, Rio Grande & Western.

Other Van Sweringen roads, which are available for the system in the East are the Erie and the Chesapeake & Ohio.

Officials of Missouri Pacific today refused to make any statement of the reported new stock control of their road.

Under management of L. W. Baldwin, president since 1923, the Missouri Pacific has made unusually successful and large expansions, and with more than 15,500 miles of lines in the Middle West and Southwest, claims to be the longest railroad system in the United States.

According to financiers, the Van Sweringens, through its holding company, the Allegheny Corporation, have obtained at least a third of the Missouri Pacific common stock.

The Missouri Pacific has outstanding 828,395 shares of common and 718,001 shares of 5 per cent cumulative preferred. It has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue approximately $35,000,000 of common stock to fund the $42.25 a share cumulated dividends on its preferred.

It was announced this week that the holding company would borrow $37,500,000 on its Missouri Pacific holdings.

Campaign Against Jewish and Christian Rites Is Ordered.

Moscow, March 14 (A.P.).—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency reports that the anti-Passover and anti-Easter campaign in Russia will officially open tomorrow, under the joint direction of the Soviet trade unions and the Athlest League of the Godless. It will last a full two months.

And to increase the league's membership by 100,000 during the campaign. Women will be taken on excursions to various places in order to show them how they can live better without religion. Moscow will have a tremendous antireligious street demonstration on April 19 as well as a carnival.

CABINET OF POLAND RESIGNS UNDER FIRE

FORMED IN DECEMBER

Warsaw, Poland, March 14 (A.P.). The government of Premier Bartel, which has been in office since last December 29, resigned today after the Diet had passed a vote of censure on the minister of labor.

When the opposition presented its motion of censure of Alexander Prystor, minister of labor, Premier Bartel took the position that censure of the minister involved a question of confidence in the government.

The opposition has been criticizing the minister of labor because of his attitude on the question of government health insurance for workers.

The Bartel cabinet in Poland was formed in December, after a clash between the Polish Diet and Gen. Pilsudski, which resulted in the downfall of the Swirtalski government. Most of the Bartel ministers belonged to the Pilsudski group and the new government failed to heal the factional breach betwen the Diet and the general.

There are only three changes in the new cabinet from that headed by Premier Switalski. Henry Jozefski, chief of the administration of the Volhynia district, became minister of the interior in place of S. Sklandkowski; Prof. Maximillian Matakiewicz, of the Lwow Engineering School, became minister of public works in place of A. Moraczewski, and Felix Dutkiewicz, chairman of the court of appeals in Warsaw, became minister of justice in place of Stanislas Car.

NEW DENATURANT FOUND FOR ALCOHOL

in the layman's language, intimating that if the bureau couldn't succeed in figuratively pouring oil on the troubled waters of the wet and dry controversy, it was determined literally to pour oil in the sinners' drinks.

"The greatest advantage of this new naphtha, Mr. Linder said, "is that it can in no way be separated from the alcohol. Dozens of distillations fail to remove it, and there is no chemical or combination of chemicals that we know of capable of segregating it. We don't feel that we are taking an unsportsmanlike advantage of the drinker, because his nose will give him ample warning of the naphtha's presence. If he persists in drinking it he will be sorry but not paralyzed."

Mr. Linder explained that only one more experiment is to be made before the new denaturant is placed in use. This is to determine whether the oil will affect the efficiency of denatured alcohol in radiators, varnish and its other numerous uses. Ethyl acetate, which is made from alcohol, also has wide uses, and if the oil impairs this product it will probably not be used. "I am convinced, however, that the naphtha will prove the most generally satisfactory denaturant that we have yet produced. Although alcohol, which we have been using widely, has proved very advantageous, I feel that this new oil will be more generally serviceable."

The new denaturant, he said, is known only as "a petroleum distillate."

DRYS ADVISE COMMITTEE OF PROHIBITION BENEFITS

Blood," McGurk's "Suicidal Hall," and similar places which once lined the Bowery and now have disappeared. They were moved when he added that hundreds of men he knew who, ten years ago had lived "without God and without hope," today, thanks to prohibition, he said, had homes, families, automobiles and radios.

"I hope to God the dry law will stay on the books and be more consistently enforced," shouted Mr. Callahan, with arms uplifted, as he exhorted the committee to disregard the pleas of wet witnesses for repeal.

"When I think of the reputation the Bowery had, I realize there has been a mighty change in the last ten years. Law and the gospel have been working together and they have been making old things new things," he concluded.

Mr. Robins told the committee that while he favored State control, the liquor question had become a social problem of such far-reaching effect that it had been forced to yield to national consideration and treatment.

Statement by Robins.

"It might have been better if the States had solved the problem themselves," he added, "but they did not solve it and whether you like it or not this country has come to think on general fundamental problems along national rather than State lines."

He termed prohibition an expression of the "great adventurous spirit of the American people."

The Philadelphia and Camden mission workers testified that they no longer had to go about the streets picking up drunken men, and that since prohibition the number they had to oust from the mission homes for raising a disturbance while drunk had dwindled from five or six a night to less than one a week.

College Records Cited.

Mr. White told the committee his research revealed that while drinking in schools and colleges had decreased, there was probably as much drinking by students in their rooms as before prohibition.

He said it was the opinion of Connecticut educators, however, that the character of drinking students was different now. He cited "clandestine drinking, especially associated with returning alumni and the fraternity life."

"The youth of this generation in Connecticut," he added, "have broken all the scholarship and athletic records of their fathers. But when it comes to getting drunk and making careers of dissipation the records are safely in possession of the fathers, and no youth today could get started in such a career before being dropped from the student body."

Chicago, March 14 (A.P.).—Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational Church, of Washington, D. C., was approved today by the church's committee on law observance as the spokesman for the group before the House judiciary committee holding hearings on the prohibition law. Dr. Pierce will address the committee, urging retention of the eighteenth amendment and of the Volstead law, in accordance with the views of the church council.

AL CAPONE WILL GO TO CHICAGO HOME

Gang Chief Is to Be Freed From Pennsylvania Prison on Monday.

MIAMI WOULD BAR HIM

Baltimore and thence by the steamship Dorchester to Miami, he has made reservations on a Chicago-bound train leaving here late Monday afternoon, and one of the magnifico s of the Philadelphia bootlegging industry said today that Jack Guzick, Capone's reputed business agent at Chicago, was expected to arrive here tomorrow to accompany his chief West.

There will be no hindrance, at any rate, in Capone's departure from this city, where he paused between trains ten months ago to attend a "gun opera" motion picture and was arrested by two detectives he had entertained only a few months before at his Miami home.

Neither the Chicago police, who frankly admit that Capone probably ordered the St. Valentine's Day "massacre" of the Bugs Moran gang a year ago, and that they can't prove it, nor the New York police, who privately disbelieve Police Commissioner Whalen's announced theory that Capone was connected with the Frankie Yale and Frank Marlow murders, have informed the Philadelphia police of any intention of arresting the big, quiet-voiced gangster on the expiration of his prison sentence. Nor, as far as they or the local Federal authorities know, is there any plan by the Chicago Federal officers to arrest Capone either for his overlordship of the South Side beer domain or for filing fraudulent income tax returns, though Federal grand juries are known to have given secret consideration to both matters.

So, it is confidently expected by the gang boss, his lawyers and his friends, he will walk through the old steel-studded door of Eastern Penitentiary as free and unencumbered of warrants as he was in the years of criminal activity, unblemished by even a single conviction, which preceded his surprising arrest here last year.

It is doubtful if he will ever be arrested, or convicted, rather, again, for his year in prison has taught the shrewd Capone several things. One is a distrust of the friendship or gratitude of public officials.

Another decision he has made is to avoid and to reduce, as far as possible, the great surge of publicity which has always attended his doings since he and Johnny Torrio ascended to the throne of the assassinated "Big Jim" Colosimo, and added the alcohol and beer industries to the richly profitable field of gambling and prostitution which Colsimo had controlled. Capone had been good-humoredly contemptuous, in the fashion of Chicago criminals, of publicity. He always talked freely to newspapermen and even gave interviews to nationally-circulated magazines. But he has come to the belief, in his months in prison, that he would never have been arrested here if two or three men had not seen a chance, by sending him to jail for what is ordinarily a misdemeanor in the local courts, to gain much profitable publicity for themselves.

That is why he has seen none of the dozens of would-be interviewers who have besieged his prison for nearly a year and why his only communications with them have been through his lawyers. He even refused an offer of $25,000 from one of the big newspaper syndicates last week, for money is one of the things that concerns him least, and he has given away, probably, more than that sum to local charities and to other prisoners and their families during his imprisonment.

Miami, Fla., March 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.). A view of Miami from the Dade County Jail, atop the 27-story courthouse here, is in store for "Scarface" Al Capone should he return to his Palm Island home at Miami Beach, following his release from prison in Philadelphia. Sentiment here regarding him has undergone a marked change and city and county authorities are cooperating in a campaign to prevent him from again becoming a resident of South Florida.

Sheriff Lehman said he is in touch with Northern detective agencies keeping tab on the activities of Capone's gang friends. He asserts he is prepared to battle through legal technicalities and keep Capone and others of his type from Dade County.

Public sentiment has been aroused through a campaign inaugurated by the Miami Daily News, owned by former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, and each day sees new alignment of political or social groups determined to prevent Miami from becoming a gang center. Just what steps will be taken to keep Capone out have not been indicated, but Sheriff Lehman said he would do it if he and his men were forced to "work 24 hours a day to accomplish this purpose."

ance measure. It has nothing to do with temperance. It has nothing to do with prohibition in Canada.

"The measure is one which does relate to smuggling and it might be described as an act to prevent smuggling or the official countenancing of smuggling."

The 1924 treaty drawn between the United States and Canada, he said, mentioned in the preamble that the two countries were desirous of avoiding any difference which might arise between them in connection with prohibition laws in the United States.

Asked why the prohibition of clearances to the United States had not been made at the time of the treaty, Mr. King replied: "It was thought at that time the treaty would be effective."

Canada, he said, had taken several steps to aid the United States in curbing rum running and "the parliament has time and again gone on record as opposed to smuggling between Canada and the United States."

MINE WORKERS ACT TO PUNISH REBELS

Expulsion From Union for Those at Rump Meeting May Follow.

INSURGENTS CUT BUDGET

Indianapolis, Ind., March 14 (A.P.). Disciplinary action that may lead to expulsion from the union of insurgent members of the United Mine Workers of America attending the rump convention at Springfield, Ill., was recommended unanimously here late today by the thousand delegates to the thirty-first constitutional convention of the union.

The vote brought to a close a discussion of the Illinois situation which has continued for nearly four days, in which officials and former officials of district 12 and the entire membership attending the rump convention have been bitterly attacked and denounced.

The convention placed itself on record regarding the insurgents by adopting that part of the report of the committee on officers which called for action as follows:

Need for Action Set Forth.

"If the United Mine Workers of America is to retain the confidence of its membership, if public respect of the aims and hopes and aspiration of union is to be maintained, if the would-be destroyers of our great union are to be labeled and exposed in accordance with the laws of our union, then this convention must take such action, and if necessary adopt such legislation as need and necessity requires to purge the organization of graft and corruption, as will restore the faith and confidence of the membership and the good will of the public.

"Therefore, this committee recommends that this convention concur in the actions of our international officials and the international executive board as detailed in the joint report of our international officers to this convention and recommends that this convention take such action as is necessary to preserve our organization."

Adoption of the report, while registering the convention's attitude clearly in regard to the insurgents, did not set out just what action will be taken.

Rebels Work on Constitution.

Springfied, Ill., March 14 (A.P.).—Moving with precision, marred by but three minor altercations, delegates to the insurgent convention of the United Mine Workers today passed nine amendments to the new constitution and paved the way for election of international officers tomorrow.

Under the amendments passed salaries of international officers would be reduced; the executive board would be reorganized and a number of changes in the election laws of the miners would be changed. An effort to provide for Negro representation on the executive board was tabled in committee.

Under the amendment providing for the reduction of salaries the new international president would receive $5,000 in place of the $12,000 annual salary received by John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers, whose administration the local convention seeks to oust. The vice president would be paid $4,500 in place of $9,000, and the secretary-treasurer of the international would receive $5,000 in place of $9,000.

Although suffering some pain, Miss Chace insisted on completing her ride after the fall. Later she was taken to the hospital by two companions, Miss Dorothy Gray and Miss Lucille Walsh, of the Public Library staff.

SENATE IS IN SNARL OVER LEATHER DUTY

Senator Walsh argued it would necessarily increase prices and be of little benefit to the cattle owner. The Oddie rates on leathers and shoes, Senator Walsh said, were not high enough.

The Massachusetts Senator, who intends offering an amendment for lower duties than those proposed by the House on leathers and shoes, said he was willing to support the House rate of 10 per cent on hides, but would not go any higher than that.

rate pending hearing on the merits of the petitions.

In his opinion, Justice Wheat said: "These are actions brought to review a decision of the Public Utilities Commission refusing to grant the railway companies an increase of fare. The companies move for an injunction, the effect of which would be to allow them to charge pendente lite (immediately), the rates which the commission refused to authorize after extended hearings.

"They assert strenously that the present rates which have been in effect for a number of years are so plainly confiscatory, while the rates which they ask are so clearly proper, that there ought to be no doubt about it. The Public Utilities Commission denies this claim and urges that the showing made by the companies falls short of the proof necessary to justify the granting of the relief sought. The ordinary and generally accepted jurisdiction for a preliminary injunction is to preserve a status, not to bring about a new one. It seems to me that the situation is not quite the same as it would be if the commission had ruled that the existing rates should be reduced.

"The question of rates which may lawfully be charged by public service corporations is always one of great complexity and difficulty, and, in the present case, after such consideration as has been possible upon a motion, I am not presuaded that the claim of the railway companies are so free from doubts as require me to grant them before there has been a full hearing.

"The motion for preliminary injunction will, therefore, be denied.

"The Public Utilities Commission also moves to dismiss the bills. That motion, as I have heretofore indicated, will also be denied."

The court was asked to pass on the matter several months ago. This action followed a lengthy hearing before the commission which resulted in the plea of the petitioners being denied.

New Tobacco Group Formation Is Pushed

Special to The Washington Post.

Police Lack Clews To SolveKidnaping

Abduction of Real Estate Man by Trio Shrouded by Mystery.

New York, March 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.). Despite intensive efforts no clew was found today to the whereabouts of Samuel Barron, 35-yera-old real estate operator, this city, said to be the victim of kidnapers. Mr. Barron vanished Wednesday evening in the vicinity of his home at Interlaken, N. J., according to an eye-witness, who told the police he saw him slugged and overpowered by three unidentified men who placed him in an automobile.

Neither Mrs. Barron nor his business partner, Herman Goodstein, was able to furnish any motive for the assault or kodnaping.

The only witness to the attack and supposed kidnaping, Arthur Kelly, who was also on his way home at the time and attempted to frustrate the assailants, believes that Mr. Barron was struck with a piece of gas pipe and the blow may have crushed his skull.

Juanita Hansen's Verdict Set Aside

Judge Holds That $167,500 Is Excessive in Hot-Water Accident.

White Plains, N. Y., March 14 (A.P.). A verdict for $167,500 awarded Juanita Hansen, former motion picture actress, last November in her damage suit against the Hotel Lincoln and the Theater Zone Realty Co., today was set aside by Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor, jr., and a new trial ordered.

She charged that when taking a shower in her room at the Hotel Lincoln she was scalded by hot water, due to inefficient plumbing, and was incapacitated for further film work.

Judge Taylor held that in the case of the Theater Zone Realty Co. it was not directly responsible for happenings in the hotel, being a "legal stranger" to Miss Hansen, and in the case of the Hotel Lincoln that the damages were excessive.

MIND TEST ORDERED FOR ACCUSED THIEF

Alleged Robber of Sleeping-Car Passengers Sent to Gallinger.

FACES MANY CHARGES

Charles B. Leet, a paroled convict, who is said to have been systematically robbing sleeping passengers on Pennsylvania Railroad trains for a number of months, was arraigned in Police Court yesterday on a charge of bringing stolen goods into the District of Columbia from Maryland and was sent to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation.

Leet was arrested Thursday by railroad detectives while in the alleged act of snatching pocketbooks, purses and jewelry from compartments where passengers were asleep. Police claim that his depredations during the past several months total many thousands of dollars, and assert that the man has been able to maintain an elaborate apartment in fashionable Chevy Chase, Md., through his criminal activities. A large quantity of jewelry was recovered in the apartment, the police state.

Action of Judge Isaac R. Hitt in sending the man to the hospital for observation was taken on a motion of his attorneys, who expressed the belief that their client is of unsound mind.

Should the hospital authorities find that Leet is mentally sane, he will face many charges. In addition to the charge of bringing stolen goods into the District, the United States attorney's office has charged him with stealing $630, a gold watch and chain, a gold tie clip and a knife and other valuables from Munson G. Shaw, of New York, the theft of $50 from Jack W. Warnes, of New York, and the theft of $40 from Richard Oulahan, of Knoxville, Tenn. Each of the charges is a grand jury offense, coming under the category of grand larceny.

Approximately fifteen witnesses were in the courtroom when the case against Leet was called. All are said by police and railroad detectives to have been victims of the man's activities on the Pennsylvania trains.

Leet has an extensive criminal record. He has served time at Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, the District Penitentiary at Occoquan, Va., Blackwells Island, N. Y., and the Ohio State Penitentiary. He is now under parole from the latter institution, police state.

Six Virginians Qualify In Naval Academy Test

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 14.—Six youths appointed from Virginia are among a list of 129 candidates for midshipmen at the Naval Academy who qualified in mental examination conducted in February, according to an announcement by academy authorities. They are: R. S. Stuart, G. K. Carter, E. L. Adams, E. L. Adams, E. B. Grimand and E. S. Old. F. W. Auld, a Maryland boy, also qualified.

Of the total who passed, 103 took the substantiating tests in mathematics and English, and the other 26 qualified in the regular examinations. The second and last of this year's mental tests will be held in April. A much larger number of appointees is expected to appear.

Turkeys' Craws Yield $130 Worth of Gold

Special to The Washington Post.

Keyser W. Va., March 14.—James L. Marshall, a Grant County farmer living near Greenland Gap Falls, marketed his turkeys at Thanksgiving time. Seventeen of the birds were sent to a meat market at Barton, Md. When the turkeys were cleaned and their craws dissected, a quantity of metal was found. The market owner sent the dust to a metallurgist, who found it to be gold.

The market owner, a Mr. Campbell, sent word of the finding to Mr. Marshall, asking him where his turkeys had grazed. The original owner of the turkeys said they had grazed on his farm.

The metallurgist says that $130 worth of gold was found in the craws of the turkeys. Now Mr. Campbell is interested, Mr. Marshall is interested, the metallurgist is interested and others owning land in the South Branch Valley are becoming interested.

Federal Killer' Guns Impounded

Judge Declares Weapons Might Be Used in New uMrders.

Fort Pierce, Fla., March 14 (A.P.). Declaring he believed his action will "tend to prevent further commission of murder or murderous assaults," Judge Jefferson B. Browne today impounded two guns used by Fred Brownlee and two border-patrol inspectors when they killed Perle S. Thomas near here three years ago.

In entering an order refusing to deliver the guns back to the United States Government, Judge Browne said he was taking "judicial cognizance of the many murderous assaults that have been committed by Federal officers and others and the necessity of preventing the same." He further set forth that he "has no assurance that if these two guns, which were used to murder an innocent citizen, be returned, the War Department will not wrongfully entrust them to other murderously inclined persons."

Thomas was killed on a highway when he failed to stop when challenged. Brownlee is serving a life sentence and Farrell and Gurley, the other patrolmen, were paroled by the State pardon board.

BANDIT IDENTIFIED AS TRIGGER WOMAN

Hold-up Victim Singles Out Irene Schroeder in Court as Prepetrator.

OCCURRED NEAR SLAYING

New Castle, Pa., March 14 (A.P.).—Irene Schroeder, on trial here for murder of Highway Patrolman Brady Paul, was identified today as the gunwoman who held up a motorist as she and a male companion stole an automobile a short distance from where the officer was fatally wounded. She was identified by the motorist, Ray Horton, of New Castle, the final witness this afternoon before recess was taken until a night session of court.

Mr. Horton said that about noon last December 7 his roadster was forced to the curb by a small coach. A man got out and demanded Mr. Horton's car, backing up the demand with a gun. As Mr. Horton stepped out, the woman from the other car met him with a gun, told him to leave his motor running, forced him to hand over his money and his drivers' license.

The man, Mr. Horton testified, brought a bag and a child from the smaller machine. As she left him to get in the roadster, Mr. Horton said, she told him she would "plug" him if he moved. The roadster then was driven rapidly away and Mr. Horton notified police. Asked if the woman who held him up was in the courtroom, Mr. Horton said, "Yes; there she is," and pointed to the defendant.

He did not see the man in the courtroom, he said, but had seen him at a hearing in an alderman's office with Mrs. Schroeder some weeks ago. He said the man had a light mustache.

Other witnesses during the day included Mrs. Mollie Crowl, proprietor of a hotel here, where the highway patrolman resided. She gave a dramatic account of the death of Paul at a hospital, where she was summoned after he had been taken there.

Quoting his last words, Mrs. Crowl said Paul told her to "tell the boys to get tehm, for they sure got me."

Tears were shed and sobs were heard in the courtroom as she testified.

Macon, Ga., March 14 (A.P.).—The body of Thomas H. Halliburton, former Macon alderman and mayor pro tem and head of a big wholesale produce establishment, was taken from Mossy Creek, 5 miles north of Perry, late today. He was found in 15 feet of water, after his automobile skidded on the pavement, struck Mossy Creek Bridge and plunged into the swollen stream.

Several other persons who witnessed near the bridge said were in the car when it plunged into the creek, had not been recovered. One was believed to be Mr. Halliburton's father, Robert C. Halliburton. Mr. Halliburton is survived by his widow and two brothers.

U. S. German Sailors Refight Jutland Scrap

Portland, Oreg., March 14 (A.P.).—An argument between four sailors, two American and two German, about naval supremacy in the late war, resulted in hostilities today on board the S. S. San Francisco docked here. The battle of Jutland was refought with fists and knives. The two German sailors were reported to have been the casualties.

Hans Moehr, mate, told authorities the defeated among the sailors had been hospitalized aboard ship, that an armistice had been signed and a disarmament policy adopted. Police left without obtaining the names of the belligerents.

An outbreak of 29 cases in Meridian last night brought to 59 the number affected in Mississippi. Laboratory experiments have been in progress for several days in Tennessee where the malady first made its appearance in the South last week. Thus far there have been no fatalities.

CHURCH PERSECUTION IN RUSSIA IS HALTED

farms and illegal confiscation of the peasants property must forthwith cease, says a highly important editoral in today's Izvestia, which reflects the views of the government.

Measures of persuasion rather than duress, Izvestia says, must be used in getting peasants to join the collective farms. Any official who henceforth departs from this policy will be severely punished.

"Doutless," continues the paper, "our enemies will raise a terrific shout of joy over this alleged retreat from our policy of collectivization. The laboring masses know that to retreat would mean surrender to the enemy of our positions which we have gained. Not only will we not surrender our positions, but we intend to fortify ourselves by the mobilization of all our power, attention and means into one vast collective effort. By holding fast to our positions, we will create conditions which will enable us to move toward complete Socialism with the entire mass of laboring peasants. This task is difficult, but can doubtlessly be solved. Mistakes and violations of the Communist party's rural policies, which have been committed by some 'bonehead' village officials, are absolutely intolerable, and must cease immediately."

GOVERNOR BARS LEGISLATURE'S ATTEMPT TO JAIL LAWYER

Marshall said he was willing to tell the House committee the truth if he could get released from confidences, but he explained his friends would not release him. He refused flatly to say if any part of the money was paid to any State official to prevent trial of the $10,000,000 antitrust suit against the Warren Bros., Boston, Mass., road material manufacturing concern. Marshall admitted receiving the $80,000 in $10,000 and $5,000 bills from a representative of the Boston firm in Memphis last September and that $18,000 was used as attorney's fees for himself and a Jackson law firm, but declined to say what he did with the remaining $62,000.

Four sets of questions were propounded Marshall by Speaker Bailey, and the witness answered all of them in part, but balked at going into detail which the committee charged would involve State officials.

Then the House adopted a resolution charging Marshall with contempt and directing the sergeant at arms to deliver him to the sheriff of Hinds County for confinement in jail for the duration of the legislative session or until he became willing to answer the questions.

Immediately Gov. Bilbo signed a pardon for Marshall directed to every law officer in the State.

"I am convinced that the said Carl Marshall," said the governor's pardon, "has violated no law nor been guilty of any crime in the premises and that the sentence imposed is wholly unwarranted."

GOV. THEODORE G. BILBO.

Seizing a copy of the pardon, Walter Sillers, member of the investigating committee, rushed before the House and, waving it overhead, shouted:

"Gentlemen, your governor has pardoned this man even before a writ has been served on him."

ASTRONOMERS SEEK DATA ON NEW STAR

LONG WORK IS AHEAD

Flagstaff, Ariz., March 14 (A.P.).—While acclaim from the scientific world poured in on the little group of astronomers at the Lowell Observatory, near here today for their discovery of the ninth planet of the solar system, efforts were renewed by them to learn more of the long sought celestial body.

Pursuing the same deliberate studies which led to the unveiling of this mystery of the heavens after a quarter of a century of labors, Dr. C. O. Lamp and his associates concentrated on establishing a definite location of the planet.

The immediate work at hand is continued photography of the vast area in which the newest member of the solar family was found with a view toward learning the orbit of the planet, its size and distance from the earth and its influence on the planetary system.

To accumulate this information, Dr. V. M. Slipher, director of the observatory, said many months of study and calculations lay before the astronomers. All that is known of the planet now is its approximate location, a belief that it is about 45 times farther from the earth than the sun and that it is the most distant member of the planet family which is composed of eight other celestial bodies.

It was 84 years ago that the last and eighth planet, Neptune, was discovered. Sixteen years ago, after nine years of study, Dr. Percival Lowell, eminent mathematician and astronomer who founded the observatory here, predicted, through calculations, that another planet must exist beyond Neptune because of a peculiar influence on Uranus, the seventh planet, and Neptune. Dr. Lowell never saw this supposed planet and it was with the hope that it could be found that the sky laboratory was founded here in the heart of the San Francisco mountains.

On January 21, a youthful photographer at the observatory, Clyde Tombaugh, first saw the planet on a telescopic plate especially developed for the research. News of the discovery was withheld until yesterday when as Dr. Slipher put it, "we were absolutely sure."

Thrice-Reprieved Killer Is Refused New Trial

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—Thrice reprieved, Fred W. Edel, convicted of the murder in December, 1927, of Mrs. Emma Harrington, must die in the electric chair at Sing Sing sometime during the week of March 31, unless Gov. Roosevelt commutes the sentence.

Judge Charles C. Nott, jr., who sentenced him to death a year ago, today refused him a new trial which had been sought on the basis of newly discovered evidence. He now has only the hope that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt may commute his sentence. The court of appeals previously had denied him a new trial. The body of Mrs. Harrington, an actress, was found in her upper West Side apartment December 29, 1927, five days after she had died from blows on the head.

English Channel Tunnel Is Urged

Committee Asserts Project Is Feasible and Favors Starting of Work.

London, March 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—All five members of the channel tunnel committee, whose report is published here today, are agreed on the feasibility of the project for a tunnel between England and France, and four of them favor it.

The committee's conclusion is that the engineering and geological difficulties involved can be overcome, but, the report adds, "there must, however, remain an element of doubt until the proposed pilot tunnel, estimated to cost £5,600,000 ($27,216,000), has been successfully driven right across the channel.

"If a pilot tunnel is successfully constructed, the practicability of subsequently constructing traffic tunnels (there would be two—one for each line of traffic) may be regarded as established. The cost of the latter is estimated at about £25,000,000 ($121,500,000).

Style Affects Potato Market.

Belfast, Northern Ireland, March 14 (A.P.).—The desire of English women to retain a slim figure was given as a reason for a slump in the potato demand by Sir Edward Archdale, Ulster minister of agriculture in Parliament yesterday. He declared the young women of England would not eat potatoes, especially at holiday resorts.

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, March 14 (A.P.).—Felix Servio Ducouray, secretary of State for justice, in the government, has resigned.

DIVIDEND IS PASSED BY SMITH COMPANY

Stookholders Are Notified of Plan to Preserve Cash Position.

RECEIVER PLEA REFUSED

Giving as its reason a desire to preserve the cash position of the company, the F. H. Smith Co. yesterday notified holders of its preferred stock that the semiannual dividend, due today, would be passed for the first time. The usual semiannual dividend of 3½ per cent would total approximately $300,000.

The chancery court in Wilmington, Del., on Thursday denied a petition for appointment of temporary receivers, a similar petition having been denied here in December.

Two suits were brought against the company, one by Senator Daniel O. Hastings, of Wilmington, and the other by R. Satterthwaite, jr., Delaware attorney general, at the instance of a stockholder, to revoke the concern's charter.

"Chancellor Wolcott's decision is in accord with that of Justice Wheat, made some months ago in a similar application in the District Supreme Court," Frank G. Raichle, counsel for the Smith company, declared in a written statement.

"Judge Wolcott's decision should end attempts to throw the Smith company into receivership. The F. H. Smith Co. is a Delaware corporation, and the refusal to appoint a receiver in Delaware precludes appointment of a receiver in any other court.

"The only opportunities which the Smith company has had to refute charges made against it have been on arguments before the courts on receivership motions. In each instance the Smith company has been victorious after making a strong showing."

Dozen Hurt in New York Clash of Fur Workers

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—A dozen men and women were taken to hospitals and several others were treated by ambulance surgeons following a fight between left and right wing fur workers today at Twenty-eighth street and Seventh avenue. The clash occurred in front of a fur shop operated by Benjamin Axel, controlled by right wing workers. The fighting broke out when a group of left wing furriers attempted to force their way into the establishment.

Knives, clubs and fists were used by members of the two rival factions as they fought to gain control of the entrance to the building. A riot call brought police reserves and the detective bureau radical squad who dispersed the crowd. Several arrests were made.

District Taubman Receivers Named

Firm Operates Five Stores in Capital; Action Begun in Baltimore.

Justice Wendell P. Stafford, in Equity Court yesterday, named Joseph M. Hasselhoff and S. B. Sightler, jr., as ancillary receivers for property owned in the District by the Taubman Stores Corporation, of Baltimore. Action of the justice followed a petition for the ancillary receivership filed by the receivers appointed by the Federal court at Baltimore last Tuesday.

The corporation operates five stores in Washington at the following addresses: 419 Ninth street northwest, 1724 Fourteenth street northwest, 3245 M street northwest, 1005 H street northeast and 3009 Fourteenth street northwest.

In addition to appointing the ancillary receivers, Justice Stafford issued an injunction restraining creditors and others from interfering with them in their work. The receivership is an aftermath of an involuntary bankruptcy action initiated at Baltimore. Attorneys Albert E. Steinem, Milton D. Korman and A. S. Mussgrave appeared for the Maryland receivers.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Even where there are no signs prohibiting parking, the time an automobile may be left standing in any street in the District still is not indefinite. There is no such a thing as unlimited parking, for the regulations provide a limit of 18 hours, beyond which a car may not be allowed to remain continuously in the same place.

Example: A motorist who is accustomed to park his car in front of his house leaves the city for two days. He allows his automobile to remain parked during that time, violating the regulations, since the period it stood without moving was well over 18 hours.

San Francisco, Calif., March 14 (A.P.).—Two armed men today held up the Hays and Divisadero Street Branch of the Bank of Italy here, probably fatally wounded a policeman and escaped with $3,719.

SQUANDERING OIL.

If the agitation for a duty on oil calls attention to the actual status of the petroleum industry it will have served a useful purpose. The attempt of independent producers to stampede Congress into granting a duty that would shut out foreign exports has failed thus far, and unless some sinister influence is brought to bear, it will continue to fail. Economists who take a broad view of the situation know that a duty would not benefit the independent producers, but would only add to the distress of the domestic industry.

Less than 10 per cent of the oil being shipped into the United States is under foreign control. The remainder is imported by American concerns that are conserving their domestic supplies for future use. A duty would not relieve the competition of which the independents complain, but would force the larger concerns to draw more heavily upon their oil fields in this country.

The interests seeking a tariff on oil have thrown conservation to the winds. They proceed on the assumption that there is no end to the petroleum resources of the United States, which is wholly false. Geologists are not prepared to say when the end will be in sight, but all are agreed that the country can not go on indefinitely drawing out its petroleum reserves at the present reckless rate. There is no reason why oil that is economically needed should be withheld from the market, but the present wasteful production and use of oil will unquestionably cost the Nation dearly.

The oil industry is sick because its products are being wasted on a gigantic scale. In the first place, only approximately 50 per cent of the petroleum in the average pool is recovered under present wildcat methods. Several times the number of wells needed for economical development are drilled in the average field. Gas which is needed to keep up pressure in the underground reservoir is allowed to escape. This damage can never be repaired.

The second source of waste is in refining processes. Antiquated machinery is used because crude oil is dumped on the market in such quantities that it does not pay to buy more efficient equipment. The average petroleum yields about 40 per cent gasoline. Under improved methods of refinement from 60 to 70 per cent gasoline could be extracted, and scientists are perfecting methods which would produce gasoline in greater volume than the original oil. But the industry is so demoralized with the oversupply of crude oil that it is not profitable to make these improvements. As a result a large part of the fuel value of petroleum is being wasted.

The final source of waste is to be found in the automobile motor. Mechanical improvements, engineers agree, would bring about drastic reduction in the amount of gasoline consumed by each car. But automobile manufacturers seem to have little interest in economies of this kind. America is a spendthrift of gasoline.

The economical use of petroleum will be postponed until the supply has been sufficiently reduced to bring about higher prices. When that occurs a large part of the Nation's petroleum reserves will have been exploited, and the supply that is left may be inadequate even under economic restrictions. No one advocates bottling up the Nation's oil reserves for the use of future generations, but common sense demands that something be done to stop the present shameful waste of this exhaustible resource.

A duty on foreign oil would merely stimulate the drainage of America's oil pools.

A GREAT CZECH WRITER.

The death of the foremost Czech writer, Alois Jirasek, which has just been announced from Prague, represents a serious loss to Czechoslovak literature. Born in 1851, Jirasek was a novelist to whom Czech history was the main source of inspiration. In his numerous historical novels he depicted the spirit of the past of the Czech nation, the Hussite movement in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, the gloom which befell Bohemia in the first half of the eighteenth and the national revival at the beginning of the nineteenth centuries.

Nobody else has contributed so much to the knowledge of Czech history among the common Czech people as Jirasek. During the great war his books were carried round the world in the knapsacks of the Czechoslovak legionnaires, and were read in the trenches of Russia, France and Italy, in the forests of Siberia and on the transports on the Pacific Ocean when they returned home. Thus Jirasek not only wrote on history, but also helped to make it.

In the first half of April, 1918, when the German armies attacked the western front of the allies, Jirasek composed and read a solemn oath at a meeting in Prague at which more than 6,000 delegates from Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia were assembled. "So we are standing here," he declared as a spokesman of his nation on that day, "firmly convinced of the ultimate victory of justice, of the victory of truth over falsehood and deceit. At the cross-roads of history, we swear by the glorious memory of our ancestors, before the eyes of the sorrow-stricken nation, over the graves of those who have fallen for the cause of liberty, today and for all eternity: We will hold out and will never give way. We will be faithful in all our work, struggles and sufferings, faithful unto death. We will hold out unto victory."

A NEWLY FOUND PLANET.

Science has become so adept at discovering new celestial bodies that the addition of a few million stars to the firmament commands little public attention. But when another major planet is located in our own solar system the public can not remain disinterested, even though the newly found member of the sun's retinue can not be seen with the naked eye.

To the scientist Dr. Slipher's announcement is of extreme importance. It means that the earth has discovered a prodigal brother, born so many million years ago that the figures are meaningless. This planet, although remote, is within the solar system of which the earth is a part. It is a brother of Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter, and therefore a child of the sun, yet so far away that sunlight may be no brighter there than moonlight is upon the earth. This great distance—estimated at 4,000,000,000 miles—accounts for the failure of scientists to discover this member of the solar family before.

Discovery of this new planet was not an accident, but the result of mathematical calculations by the late Dr. Percival Lowell. Peculiarities in the behavior of the planet Uranus led Dr. Lowell to believe that another great planet might be found, and a systematic search began. The mathematical estimate proved accurate, and now the new planet has been both seen and photographed through powerful telescopes. Such a remarkable verification should have a significant effect on public confidence in the science of astronomy.

Three new planets in the solar system have been discovered in modern times. Is it not possible that others will be located? Neptune, which is also invisible to the naked eye, has been known since 1846. When more powerful telescopes are built the fringe of the known universe will no doubt be scanned for other stray members of the solar system. Who knows where the end may be? Will astronomers be able to observe irregularities in the orbit of the new planet and thus calculate the position of still more distant bodies?

CANCER RESEARCH.

Dr. C. C. Little, testifying before the Senate committee on commerce in connection with the Harris resolution to authorize a Federal appropriation for cancer research work, said: "All that we don't know about cancer is more than all we don't know about all the rest of the diseases that afflict mankind." That is what makes cancer a terror. Medical men through the centuries have been studying the disease and its causes, but all they have learned is that cancer seemingly is not a specific disease, inasmuch as it manifests itself in many varying forms, and the treatments they have devised are at best only partially effective. Cancer takes an annual toll in the United States of 100,000.

That the cause of cancer is unknown does not mean that the disease must always remain mysterious. The endowment of research laboratories and the subsidizing of scientists so that they will be free to devote their entire attention to working with cancer patients ought to result in conquering the disease. Some progress has been made of recent years. Dr. Joseph Bloodgood, of Johns Hopkins, told the Senate committee that in 1900 only 17 per cent of cases treated were cured, but by 1920 the percentage of cures had risen to 50. Of recent months the discovery of Drs. Walter Coffey and John Humber, of the Southern Pacific Hospital, have come in for wide attention. Through a treatment developed from glandular extracts they have apparently cured all but 15 of 1,500 cases treated, all of which were received as incurable. Although they refuse to claim a "cure," insisting that they are working only experimentally, the results they have obtained indicate that they may, at least, be on the right track.

The Harris resolution should be enacted. Physicians generally, no matter what theories they may hold, are of the opinion that the problem will be solved only through cooperative attack on an extensive scale. The Government would be acting in the public interest by providing for a systematic attack upon the cancer problem.

THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT.

The eighteenth amendment has weathered eleven years of legal assault and battery, but the wet forces are not yet willing to concede its constitutionality. The New York County Lawyers Association has had a committee probing for loopholes in the amendment for the last two years. They have at last hit upon an argument which they hope to carry to the Supreme Court and dislodge the prohibition amendment from its pedestal.

Their argument is that the method of ratifying the amendment was unconstitutional. The lawyers' committee claims that it should have been ratified by conventions in the States rather than by the Legislatures. "The tenth amendment to the Constitution," the committee says, "was adopted to secure the people of the United States in their individual rights so that they would be forever beyond the reach of any expansion of the powers of the new national government, save such as might be granted by the people." Therefore, they argue, no additional powers over the rights of the people can be granted to the national Government by any body of men save the people themselves.

The tenth amendment provides that "the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." The committee very liberally construes this as an abrogation of the right bestowed upon Congress in Article V to choose between the alternative methods of amending the Constitution. When any new powers over the people are delegated to the national Government, the argument runs, they must come from constitutional conventions and not from the people's duly elected representatives.

The committee has been very diligent in unearthing such a profound argument. But it appears to have misconstrued the wording of the amendment on which its argument is based. Ungranted powers are "reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." This very phrase seems to leave an alternative, permitting exercise of unreserved powers by either the duly constituted organs of State government or the people themselves in convention assembled.

The cause of the wets gathers no impetus from these efforts to invalidate the eighteenth amendment. The two years' labor devoted to this study by the New York Lawyers' Association is as futile as the hearsay and opinion offered as "evidence" to the House judiciary committee.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Over in Baltimore a vigorous campaign for and against daylight saving is raging. Those whose labor takes them from their beds early in the morning are opposed to daylight saving, as are those who realize the disadvantages of carrying on business on nonstandard time. But the lure of an extra hour of daylight at the conclusion of the day's labor is great. It makes possible a full round of golf between work and bedtime or enables a man to keep a garden. Daylight saving has many enthusiastic supporters.

The scheme originated during the war as a conservation measure. In a few States the law says that clocks must be moved ahead an hour during the summer, and in certain other States daylight saving is made unlawful. Where daylight saving is Statewide the scheme works fairly well. But where daylight saving is a matter of local option confusion reigns. In the operation of railroads the daylight saving plan is a nuisance.

In wartime, on a country-wide basis, daylight saving met with the approval of a majority of the population. In peacetime it is not possible to obtain majority approval of the plan. On a basis other than country-wide observance the scheme is more obnoxious than beneficial. Gradually its popularity is waning.

WHO OWNS THE AIR?

From the New York Times.

The law of the air is as yet in its infancy. Mr. W. Jefferson Davis, in his lately published "Aeronautical Law," has collected all that is now accessible to students of what is destined to become a productive field. The interpretative and illuminating decisions on particular cases are still insufficient. The old theory of the common law that he who owns the soil owns to the sky, a maxim, it is now said, that referred to tenancy, not sovereignty, has given way to the rule, as Mr. Davis writes, "that the ownership of private property is subject to an easement of passage at a height which will not interfere with one's peaceful enjoyment of the land flown over."

There is an unreported Pennsylvania case in which an inferior court held that the flight of an airplane over land marked "No trespassing" was not an unlawful trespass under the statute forbidding entry into such "posted" land. Mr. Davis quotes a decision in which it is said that "no court has so far passed upon the liability of an aviator in trespassing by flying over another's land." The Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts has just denied a bill to enjoin an aircraft and an airport company from flying over the land and buildings of the plaintiff in a manner constituting a trespass and a nuisance; also to enjoin them from using a nearby field as a base. No damages were asked. It was a test case.

The court holds that it is a proper function of the Legislature under the police power to provide for problems and dangers caused by new inventions and, in the interest of the public welfare, to "adjust private rights and harmonize conflicting interests" by statute. As a matter of self-protection, the State must have the power to control the air-space above it. Whatever the technical right of the owner of the land in the air space above it up to a reasonable limit, his actual occupation and separate enjoyment of that slice of air, through the whole history of private ownership, have been "extremely limited:"

"The acts of Congress and the statutes of this Commonwealth, by plain implication, not only recognize the existence of air navigation but authorize the flying of aircraft over privately owned land."

The minimum height of 500 feet fixed by the statute can not be regarded as indicating an improper exercise of the police power or undue interference with the rights of the plaintiff. Thus the right to fly over private property is sustained. Had the aircraft of the defendants, going to or coming from an airport, the right to fly so low as 100 feet over unutilized property of the plaintiffs but against their protest? No, says the court. That is trespassing. Air navigation is entitled to its legal rights, but can not infringe upon the legal rights of others:

"No reason has been suggested why airports of sufficient area may not be provided so that take-offs and landings may be made without trespass upon the lands of others. If, in the interests of aerial navigation, rights of flight at such low altitude over lands of others are of sufficient public importance, doubtless the power of eminent domain for acquisition of rights of way in air spaces might be authorized."

Whether or to what extent flying at a lower height than 500 feet might be authorized in the exercise of the police power, the court was not called upon to consider or decide. So the multitude of complaining groundlings can still live in hope.

SERIOUS GOLFER.

Some golfers take their favorite sport entirely too seriously, says the Rock Island Argus.

A Britisher by the name of Halliburton died in London recently and when his will was read it was found he had provided that his body be cremated and his ashes scattered about under a beech tree located on the golf course, the tree being particularly designated.

Always under that tree Mr. Halliburton encountered something that prevented him from achieving some high point in golf. Shooting for the eighteenth hole his ball landed against the beech tree. His foil in life, the beech tree area became his grave in death as the members of his golf club carried out the wishes of this eccentric and, assembling under the beech tree, scattered his ashes hither and yon. The tree was even named after Halliburton.

Just what Halliburton expected to accomplish by means of his unusual will is unknown. Maybe he thought the peeve he cherished against the offending beech tree was of such a virulent character that his ashes would be impregnated with it and take on such poisonous qualities that the tree would wither up and die.

There is no question about it—some golfers are queer. If they stay in the game long enough anything is liable to happen.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

Yesterday evening, when you should have been out-of-doors, you sat curled up in an easy chair in the midst of textbooks. Your eyes were tired; your mind was tired; your nerves were on edge, and your soul was full of rebellion.

"I can't remember these silly things," you said, "and I can't see any sense in trying to remember."

The "silly things" that aroused your ire were the dates of insignificant skirmishes in the Mexican war, and the names of the officers engaged, and the "official figures" of the killed and wounded.

I didn't reprove you, for you were right; and yet you were unwise, and I think I can show you the way of wisdom.

The history you are studying was written by a historian, not by an intelligent educator. It was selected by officials who have no more conception of true education than a horsefly has of calculus. And requiring children to study that book, and memorize unimportant statistics that will be and should be forgotten within a year, is unjust, unreasonable and unintelligent.

All an educated person need know of that war or any similar war is the cause, the approximate cost in men and money, and the result.

I am glad you have intelligence enough to realize that the requirements of our schools are silly, but you must use your intelligence to reconcile yourself to the inevitable.

All through your college course you will be required to memorize unimportant and worthless facts, and you will see other girls ruining their health to keep the pace or cheating to ease the strain, and often you will rebel and hate the anonymous imbecility that makes such things necessary.

I will understand, and sympathize, but here is the thing you must remember.

Silly and inadequate and misdirected as it is, our educational system is the best we have. A poor girl must take it or do without.

You can't change the system. I can't. Thousands of intelligent people are trying, and making little headway because old customs are deep rooted.

Your church creed has foolish faults, and thousands of our laws are foolish, but there is nothing you can do about it except endure as best you can and work quietly for the development of saner ways.

You can't go hungry because a foolish cook used too much water in the soup. Get what solids you can and find grace to grin.

Play the game in school, silly as it is; for you must play by the rules to win prizes. Don't cheat; don't play too hard; but play cheerfully and get by as best you can, and then join the ranks of those who are working to make the rules helpful and sane. Love,

DAD.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Impractical to Try to Classify Drinking Capacity of Citizens.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In relation to his 2.75 per cent alcoholic beverage bill, Representative Dyer, of Missouri, asks the Law Enforcement Commission to express its opinion as to whether such a beverage is intoxicating. He says, speaking of the one-half of 1 per cent of the Volstead act:

"It is the duty of Congress in making such a statutory declaration to place the limit as high as safely may be adopted, in order, that the statute, in declaring what is intoxicating liquor by mere fiat of law, shall avoid making the field of the statutory prohibition wider than the constitutional prohibition, which is only against intoxicating liquor."

If the commission is as astute as we may presume it to be, its reply is not likely to simplify matters. It will have to point out that no fixed limit suited to the drinking public as a whole can ever be established. What may be one man's soft drink will be another's intoxicant.

In order to solve the problem Representative Dyer seems to have in view it would be necessary to grade the intoxicating limit by classes. For class 1, let us say, there might be a 2.75 limit; or, to be on the safe side, perhaps we would better fix the class 1 limit at one-half of 1 per cent. Following the 2.75 would come the 5.5 per cent limit, the 7.75 per cent limit, and so on.

Practical objections to such a scheme will be at once apparent. For instance, to classify the citizens of the United States according to their drinking capacity so as to furnish each with his proper license would be very difficult. And when we consider that the varying capacity of individuals from time to time would involve an immense amount of reclassifying, it must be admitted that the fixing of a satisfactory alcoholic limit looks like a hopeless task.

Why Are Communists Admitted?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Under the direction of Police Commissioner Whalen, the New York City police are engaged in a campaign to rid the city of all Communist agitators, whether in city or industrial employ.

This campaign should be carried on in every city of the United States where the Soviet government has its disciples of "The Godless One."

However, what is the use of Commissioner Whalen's campaign, when the United States Government continues to allow representatives of the Soviet government to enter our country for the purpose of "studying American industrial methods," thereby refilling the vacancies made because of Soviet affiliation?

On March 12, seventeen Soviet officials were granted permission to enter the United States at Ellis Island. Three weeks ago, 60 Soviet officials were allowed to enter the same port.

When will Congress enact laws to protect the United States from the insidious "boring-in" of "The Godless One?" MARGARET NORTH.

Taxicab Fares Should Be Low and Competition Unrestricted.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For years there has been little or no competition in Washington in the taxicab business. Now this is all changed and there is real competition for the first time.

An attempt is made by short-sighted people to stop this competition. Congress is being asked to pass misguided laws which, if enacted and upheld by the courts, would deny the people of this city the benefits of low rate taxicab transportation.

This writer has earned a living in the taxicab business for nineteen years and he hopes no such laws will ever be passed. We would like to see fares cheap enough so that everybody could afford to use a taxicab. Competition should be unrestricted.

Naturalized Citizen Is Usually a Real American, Influential in Combating Foreign Propaganda.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In guarding against the menace of undesirable aliens we should not lose sight of the fact that as a rule our naturalized citizens and their offspring are Americans in the full meaning of the word.

There is no evidence at hand to show that in matters of government they are less well informed than the great mass of native-born citizens, and in frequent instances I find that their realization of the excellence of representative government is more acute than that of the average American.

Manifestly, in combating insidious and destructive anti-American propaganda from abroad, the influence of the thrifty foreign-born American is very great. R. P. PETERSON.

A THIEVING BIRD.

Early birds, says the New York Times, lured north by the late February warmth, will do well to avoid cuckoos as neighbors when they start nest-building for 1930.

The cuckoo mother lays its egg in the nest of some other bird and flies away without another thought for the cares of motherhood. The fledling, newly hatched, rewards the hospitality of its hosts by shoving their eggs out of the nest and wolfing all of the food that the devoted pair continue to bring to the nest.

Fresh proof of the unsocial habits of the cuckoo was brought forward at a meeting of the Linnean Society in London by an English scientist. Last summer he photographed the young birds in the very act of ousting their bedfellows.

The pictures taken show that the bird slips one wing under the egg, rolls it up on his back and then slowly shoves it up to the edge of the nest and over, "like a human workman walking backward and rolling a heavy barrel up a steep incline with his shoulders."

The scientist reports that one cuckoo, only a day and a half old, threw out the same egg fifteen times within the hour, it being caught and replaced each time.

RUSSELL ANSWERS HAITIAN ACCUSERS

High Commissioner Files Lengthy Refutation of Charges.

RUMORS ARE RAMPANT

Port au Prince, Haiti, March 14 (A. P.).—Brig. Gen. John R. Russell today filed with the Hoover commission a lengthy refutation of all charges made against him in the hearings last week.

The American high commissioner in Haiti was bound by his diplomatic status from giving a statement himself, and the commission announced it was considering the report before releasing it, but it is believed to deny all charges that a dictatorship exists and to cite many accomplishments of the American high commissioner.

Statement "Too Controversial."

Late this afternoon the American newspaper correspondents accompanying the Hoover commissioners requested W. Cameron Forbes, the chairman, to give out Gen. Russell's statement in justice to the general.

Mr. Forbes replied that the information contained in the statement was "too controversial," and that he feared it might have a serious effect upon the Haitian people. He indicated, however, that it might be made public later.

The commission announced that its relations with Gen. Russell were of the best, indicating that when the expected recommendation for abolishment of the office of high commissioner is made, nothing of a personal nature will be involved.

Rumors Fly Fast.

Meanwhile, all sides tonight awaited clarification of the muddled political situation—clarification expected in a statement promised by the Hoover commission tomorrow.

Rumors of all sorts were current here today. One was that President Borno, not liking the commission's way, had appealed to the League of Nations. That was characterized as absurd, and assurances of a favorable outcome to the troubled Haitian situation were expressed again by the commission.

In answer to the opposition fear that Borno is trying "to defeat the plan of the commission" by interpreting the constitution to mean that an election by popular vote can not be held until 1932, the commission unofficially but strongly hinted that Borno would be unable to bind his successor, the proposed temporary president, to such an interpretation, and that his successor would be the choice of the opposition.

Threats of Resignation.

This hint also indicated that Borno soon might be forced to sign a written agreement he would accept the man chosen by the opposition as also agreeable to him.

Threats of demonstrations in front of the presidential palace tomorrow night were heard on all sides today. These would be directed against Borno but not against the commission. Justin Sam and Sylvio Cator, Young People's leaders, told the commission today that such demonstrations were planned. When the commission promised a statement tomorrow the leaders agreed to advise the groups not to demonstrate at present.

Under martial law, which still is in force, three days' notice must be given before a parade permit is issued. The students threaten to parade anyway tomorrow, however, and to ask Borno to resign unless the situation is clarified.

Erlanger "Widow" Is Cited by Court

Called to Defend Her Action Against Probating Theater Man's Will.

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—An order directing Mrs. Charlotte Fiscal Erlanger, who says she is the widow of A. L. Erlanger, to show cause why an action brought by her to prevent the probate of Erlanger's estate should not be dismissed, on the ground that she is not his widow, was signed by Surrogate James A. Foley today.

The order is returnable Wednesday, March 19.

The former actress, who says she is Erlanger's widow, was in conference today with her attorney, Max D. Steuer, but Mr. Steuer declined to make any statement regarding the conference.

In his will, filed Monday, Erlanger specifically stated he was unmarried and made no mention at all of the woman who claims to be his widow. He left the greater part of his estate, variously estimated at from $20,000,000 to $75,000,000, to his brother, former Supreme Court Justice Mitchell L. Erlanger, and his sisters, Miss Rae Erlanger and Mrs. Caroline Bergman.

THE clouds have rolled by for Senator Smoot and the sun again shines over his world. The morning of a new day has come to supplant that oppressive darkness of the night. His fellow man once more looks good to him. Everything is, indeed, all a smile.

There were uncertain days there, even when victory seemed to be in sight, but the senator has now woven his sugar increase into the tariff bill as inextricably as the cement that went with it. And all the king's horses and all the king's men can not get it out again.

It is now quite obvious, in fact, that the Cuban Embassy toasted too soon. As the senator himself predicted, the champagne has turned bitter in the mouth.

* * * *

LET come what may now, the world will still be all right. Let the coalition re-form if it likes and carry on just as diabolically as it may, it will still be a good old world to Senator Smoot; life will still taste sweet.

No more is the senator to go to bed at night with the distress of the children of Brigham Young pounding in his ears. No more is he to awake in nightmarish terror at their plaintive, unheeded cries.

Instead, life is to be one sweet dream for the senator now, the vision of a great boat, the sugar boat, for which the children have been longing, finally coming into port. He will visualize huge bonfires out in his rugged State, the singing of great paens of joy under star-lit skies. There will be old-fashioned Olympic sports such as the carousing of the old people and the playing of "post-office" by the kids.

The towns that rest in the valleys and atop the hills will once more be aglow, grayish smoke curling from smokestacks and writing prosperity across the sky. The flags will be fluttering from the monumental buildings of old Salt Lake City itself. The merry harpists will go on debauch. And there would seem no reason why the lake from which the city draws its name should not turn sweet.

IT will be a wonderful dream that will take the place of the senator's restless nights, of nights of tossing over and over in his bed with the ghost of his great responsibility haunting him.

And suddenly there will come the greatest vision of all. The children of all Utah will cease their singing and form in two great lines across the entire State. There will be a rain of flowers to carpet the lane between them, and then, with nothing but the soft murmur of the trees and a gentle wind from the heavens above, the senator himself will appear, with a great bag of sugar forked on a spear. It will be a masterful scene of the senator bringing home the bacon.

But now that the senator is in such a happy mood, we wonder if he would not let some of the rest of us read those outlawed books which he has had locked up in his office for several weeks.

U. S. Scientists Urge Award System for Researchers

Four Bureau Directors Speak in Favor of Bill to Insure Medals and $100 Annually For Five Outstanding Scientific Workers.

(Associated Press.)

The unrequited toil of the researcher in Uncle Sam's scientific bureaus was the theme yesterday of an appeal made by four distinguished Federal scientists to the House library committee for a medal and award system.

Describing the long hours and the unflagging zeal of the laboratory specialists, the quartet of bureau directors asked that especially distinguished service be givne some recognition. Each came from an institution recognized as trail-blazer of scientific progress. They were Dr. George H. Burgess, director of the Bureau of Standards; Dr. C. G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution; Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon General of the Public Heath Service, and Dr. R. S. Patton, director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

All told the story of how men, working for small salaries, often from 16 to 18 hours a day, formulated scientific facts, or made discoveries of the greatest value to the Government that employs them, and to all mankind, only to be retired at a pittance.

The Griffin bill for a medal of honor and awards to Government employes for distinguished work in science would provide a sum of $100 on presentation of the medal and a sum of not less than $100 thereafter annually for life. A provision is made, however, that not more than five scientific workers should receive the medal in any one year.

Representative Griffin (Democrat), New York, author of the bill testified he thought the best plan of award would be to divide it into two classes, one for outstanding contribution to science, and the other for acts of heroism in the cause of science.

GANDHI ENDS THIRD DAY OF INDIA MARCH

Hindu Mystic Makes Fiery Speech Inciting Villagers to Oppose British.

PLANS TO MAKE SALT

Ahmadabad, India, March 14 (A.P.). Mahatma Gandhi, Hindu mystic and nationalist leader, and his band of 79 volunteers tonight completed the third day of their march to Jalalpur opening the nationalist campaign for civil disobedience to the Indian government. They stopped for the night at the village of Matar.

The march from Nawagon, where they slept last night, was broken at Vasna, but was otherwise eventless. At Vasna Gandhi delivered a speech exhorting the villagers to volunteer for the civil resistance campaign and to resign their government positions. After the speech the headmen and police authorities at Vasna and at Mahalal resigned and the villagers vowed not to fill the vacancies.

Gandhi made a similar speech at Matar this evening, calling upon the village officials to resign and appealing to the people to make a bonfire of all foreign cloth in their possession. He urged them to march to Vadalpur, Borsad, and Taluka, where salt is plentiful, and to break the government's monopoly by manufacturing it.

According to his original plans, Gandhi still faces a march of about seventeen days before reaching Jalalpur, on the gulf of Cambay, where he and his volunteers will violate the monopoly by manufacturing salt.

France Names M. Henry for Embassy Post

First Secretary Chosen as Temporary Counselor.

By JEAN ELIOT.

M. JULES HENRY, who has been first secretary of the French Embassy for many years, left Washington for a holiday in Florida just as it began to get about that he had been made "counselor in function." This apparently means that M. Henry is to be acting counselor until the arrival of a new incumbent, for he still retains his official rank of first secretary of embassy.

Count de Sartiges, sometime counselor of the embassy, has been abroad for several months. His name still appears in the diplomatic list, with "absent" after it, but he has been detached from his post here and will have—or perhaps already has—a new assignment. Attaches of the embassy here, however, have no information as to where Count de Sartiges, several times charge d'affaires in the absence of the French Ambassador, is to go.

M. Jules Henry first came to this country in 1917 with the French high commission headed by M. Andre Tardieu, now busy forming and reforming ministries in France. Then came a tour of duty at the Quai d'Orsay, after which, in 1920, he was appointed third secretary of the embassy in Washington.

He has been here ever since, beginning under M. Jules J. Jusserand and serving under four ambassadors. As a result he is thoroughly familiar with the ramifications of diplomatic relations between France and the United States.

It will be remembered that France kept Ambassador Jusserand in Washington for over twenty years. And although politics frequently makes expedient the shifting of ambassadors, it is the policy of the French Republic to favor long tenure of office for lesser officials of its diplomatic service, a phase of the "career" idea, whose benefits are obvious.

New Charge Arrives At Egyptian Legation.

Ali Ishmail Bey, former First Secretary of the Egyptian Legation, has returned to Washington as Charge d'Affaires of Egypt, a post he will hold until the arrival of a new minister. Ali Ishmail Bey was here for a short time during the regime of Samy Pasha and returned to his native country at about the time the minister resigned.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman To Open New House.

After many delays, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman expects to move into her new house within the next few days. In the autumn she purchased the old Lightfoot place atop the hill at the intersection of Ridge and Foxhall roads and she has remodeled it out of all recognition. The mansard roof has been replaced by a sloping roof with dormer windows and new wings on either side give an effect of gracious proportion to a house which was originally too high for its width. Fine forest trees shade the lawns terraced down to the road and the house boasts a magnificent view of Georgetown, Washington and the Virginia hills across the Potomac. While her house has been undergoing remodeling Mrs. Harriman has been living at the Women's National Democratic Club.

Percy Lawson-Johnston, Royal Scotts Guards, as best man. The ceremony will be witnessed only by the immediate families. After a honeymoon in the South Mr. Lawson-Johnston and his bride will come to Washington for a few weeks and will sail later for England. They will make their home in London.

Mr. Lawson-Johnston comes of an old and distinguished English family. He is the son of the late John and Elizabeth Lawson-Johnston, of Kingswood, Kent, England. His brother, Lord Luke, of Pavenham, is head of the family, and he is related to Lord and Lady St. John, of Bletso.

Congress Is Asked To Control Taxis

Utilities Commission Seeks Law to Govern Number Allowed in City.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday turned to Congress in its efforts to control the operators of taxicabs and the number of cabs which shall be permitted in the city.

The commission asked Congress to enact a law providing that all owners of cabs get the approval of the commission before they operate. The law would empower the commission to force owners to show that the operation of additional cabs is a matter of public convenience and necessity.

All cabs in operation on May 1 of this year would be granted certificates of convenience and necessity. The proposed law would give the commission power to do something it may not do now, although members of the commission desire to do it—control the number of taxicabs in the city.

Song Infringement Is Charged in Suit

Club Is Alleged to Have Used Compositions Without License.

Charging that the songs "Little by Little" and "Turn On the Heat" had been used without permission, Gene Buck, president of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and De Sylva, Brown & Henderson, Inc., both of New York City, yesterday filed suit for injunction and damages against the National Fellowship Club, located in the ballroom of the City Club.

Mr. Buck explains that his society owns the nondramatic performing rights in both musical compositions, while the other plaintiff asserts the ownership of copyrights. Charge is made that the defendant used the two compositions on January 25, last, and prior thereto without consent of either of the plaintiffs.

The court is asked to restrain the defendant from further alleged unauthorized use of the two songs, and to fix damages for each alleged violation of not less than $250. Attorneys William J. Hughes, jr., and James A. O'Donnell appear for the petitioners.

Aid to Will Hays Lauds Art in Films

Finds Standards Higher Than Box Office in Movie Industry.

The motion-picture industry is seeking "far higher standards than the box office" in producing films and is working with leading civic and women's organizations to help America "set new traditions in social responsibility for the world and for future generations," Carl E. Milliken, of New York, said yesterday in a talk before 1,000 members and guests of the better films committee, Eastern division, Daughters of the American Revolution, at the Ambassador Theater.

Mr. Milliken is principal aid to Will H. Hays, "czar" of the motion-picture industry, and was formerly Governor of Maine. A preview showing of George Arliss in "The Green Goddess" preceded the address.

The increase in the past eight years from 40,000,000 to 115,000,000 in weekly attendance at motion-picture theaters was cited by the speaker as public approval of the general wholesomeness of present-day pictures.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"PISCES."

IF March 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 6 p. m. to 7 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight.

The influences on this date should be inspirational, and the birth of new ideas should inure to your future benefit. There will be more social life than usual, with romance and pleasant friendship in evidence.

The child born on this March 15th will have a determined and practical nature, and it is destined to do some important constructive work. It will be industrious and hard-working, and will ask for neither "pulls" nor favors.

You are very clear-headed and long-headed and courageous. You stand up and face your difficulties—when you see a crisis coming you get ready and meet it in time. You do not wait until your nerves are on edge, when your judgment is warped by thinking in circles. You are not a muddler. You are very human, a person of cultured taste and have so amiable a temperament that you are beloved by all with whom you are brought into relation.

Your chief study is mankind, although it may be more or less concealed under other outward expressions. You should be an apt student of psychology, and you should be able to apply your knowledge in your everyday life. It is not often that you are fooled in a person—you are not easily taken in. You do not like a solitary life—you are happier when with a crowd, people do not tire you. You are a ready and convincing talker and exercise a great influence on those about you.

You maintain a sense of proportion, you do not emphasize one side of your nature very much to the exclusion of others. You do not live by meat alone—nor love, nor work, nor enjoyment. You should marry early in life—although attracted to and by a "Libra" or "Sagittarius" person, friction will arise unless faults are overcome on both sides.

TALES THAT ARE TOLD WHERE VETERANS GATHER---NOW TO BE PUBLISHED IN

The Washington Post.

One of the strangest phenomena of the World War has been the reluctance of veterans to talk about their experiences—excepting when in the company of those who shared their hardships and dangers and the occasional bright spots of humorous occurrences.

Now the silence is to be broken—veterans themselves will tell of the outstanding memories of happenings in which they participated; in the training camps, on shipboard, in the training areas of France and England and on the field of battle. Short, punchy stories, in the language of the soldier, sailor and marine, giving an intimate glimpse of life as it was in the stirring years of 1917-1918.

Here's a Sample!

I had always liked to read the stories of Irvin Cobb but had scant hope of ever meeting him face to face. However, I came pretty close to it early in 1918 when the Twenty-sixth Division was stationed in the Chemin Des Dames sector.

I had been sent with a ration detail to the storehouse, an old rubber factory opposite the railroad station, in Soissons and was goldbricking on top of a pile of hay when I saw Maj. Estey, of the 101st Engineers, walking through the yard with a man whom I recognized from pictures as Irvin Cobb himself. Just as they arrived within saluting distance I heard the freight train roar of a German 9-inch shell coming . . . Cobb and the major disappeared from sight—but maybe it was because I had dived into the center of the hay bales.

HURLED FROM AUTO, MAN IS BADLY HURT

Paperhanger Is Carried to Georgetown Hospital in Dying Condition.

POLICE DETAIN DRIVER

Pitched out of the automobile in which he was riding with two companions when it overturned in careening off the Great Falls road in nearby Virginia, 1 mile south of Chain Bridge, William C. Barron, 33 years old, paperhanger and painter, of 200 B street northwest, received critical injuries early last night.

Attendants at Georgetown Hospital, where he was taken by a passing motorist, reported that he was in a dying condition with internal injuries, a fracture of the jaw and a fracture of the right arm, among other hurts.

Seventh Precinct police took in custody as driver of the wrecked machine Spencer R. Mulligan, 29 years old, also a paperhanger and painter, of a Channing street residence near Third street northeast, for investigation pending the outcome of Barron's injuries. He will be turned over to Fairfax County authorities.

Barron was hurt, police quoted Mulligan as declaring, when the machine veered off the road in an unexplained manner and threw the two of them and another man onto the highway. Police said Mulligan gave the name of the other occupant only as a Mr. Gordon, who disappeared after the smash.

A passing motorist took Mulligan, with the injured man, to the hospital, where attendants summoned police, who took Mulligan in custody when he was found to have escaped injury.

Shoplifter Who Escaped For Time Is Sentenced

Katie Diggs, colored, who fled from the House of Detention last December while awaiting trial on a charge of shoplifting, was tried on the charge yesterday in Police Court and was sentenced by Judge Isaac R. Hitt to serve 360 days in jail.

The woman was arrested Thursday by Policeman M. J. Mahaney, of the Eighth Precinct, who recognized her from police photographs taken at the time of her arrest in December. The woman, who was apprehended by Mrs. Cecelia A. Clarke, of the Woman's Bureau, was alleged to have purloined four hats and five pairs of stockings from a downtown department store.

TWO AVIATORS DIE IN CRASH OF PLANE

Craft Goes Into Tailspin After Stunting 1,500 Feet in Air.

BOTH KILLED INSTANTLY

Cleveland, Ohio, March 14 (A.P.).—Crash of a cabin monoplane from a height of 1,500 feet cost the lives of two aviators near Cleveland Airport today. The victims were David Bunnin, airplane salesman, and Richard R. Braggins, 22, pilot, both of Cleveland and employes of the Curtiss-Wright flying service.

Bunnin was a World War flier, had spent seventeen months in France as an American Army aviator, and had soloed in the air more than 3,000 hours. Braggins formerly was an Army flier.

The two men had gone up for a test flight and were seen by George Wagner, of Olmsted Falls, making several loops. Once they flew upside down. Then suddenly the plane went into a tailspin and crashed in an apple orchard on the farm of John Kaminski.

Rescuers who rushed to the scene of the accident found Bunnin and Braggins had been instantly killed. The plane was twisted wreckage, which it was necessary to tear apart to extricate the bodies.

Airport officials were unable to say what caused the craft to go into the tailspin, but thought it might have been weakened during the looping and flying upside down.

MRS. SIMPSON GIVES $85,000 IN LEGACIES

Will Fails to Estimate Value of Estate Other Than Special Bequests.

CHARITIES WILL BENEFIT

Mrs. Louise Kauffmann Simpson, widow of Dr. J. Crayke Simpson and daughter of Samuel Hay Kauffmann, former president of the Evening Star Newspaper Co., under the terms of her will filed for probate yesterday in District of Columbia Supreme Court left individual bequests totaling more than $85,000. Mrs. Simpson died March 9.

No estimate of the value of the estate is given. Samuel Hay Kauffmann and Henry G. Hansford, trustees and executors under the will, are instructed to pay the special bequests and divide all the estate except that represented by shares in the Evening Star among three nephews, Rudolph M., Philip C. and Samuel H. Kauffmann. The income from the stock in the newspaper is to be distributed among the nephews and a niece, Barbara K. Murray.

The largest single bequests are made to the Children's Hospital and Mary C. Mearns, a cousin, the will specifying that each is to receive $20,000. Elizabeth Boyd Reed, of Greenwich, Conn.; Louise Kauffmann Sullivan, of Passaic, N. J., and Lane Kauffmann, son of Philip C. Kauffmann, are given $10,000 each. Mary K. Fracker, of Zanesville, Ohio, a cousin; Horton Simpson, of Albany, N. Y., a brother of the testator's husband, and Caroline S. Stuart, of Constantine, Mich., a sister of Dr. Simpson, are left $5,000 each.

Bequests of $500 are given to the Associated Charities, Catherine J. Murray, Margaret Brazel, Harriet McQueen, Florence Simpson, Mary McCauley, Johnetta B. Sangar and Jessie Murray. A bequest of $200 is made to Hope Coiner.

Former Capital Lawyer Sued for Maintenance

Howard K. Shaw, of Trenton, N. J., who formerly practiced law in Washington, was named defendant in a suit for maintenance filed yesterday in District Supreme Court by the wife, Mrs. Eleanor M. Shaw, of 1727 Taylor street northwest.

Mrs. Shaw alleges that her husband has been cruel and has neglected her and failed to provide for her and their child. They were married June 5, 1926, according to the petition. Mrs. Shaw states that she went to Trenton, N. J., with her husband, but that he began associating with women of questionable character and neglected her so much she was compelled to return to Washington. Attorneys Jamieson and Ward appear the wife.

Postoffice Posts Sold, Blease Says

Senator Asserts Postmaster General Knows of South Carolina Situation.

(Associated Press.)

The assertion that postmasterships are being sold by Republican officials in South Carolina with the knowledge of Postmaster General Brown, was made in the Senate yesterday by Senator Blease (Democrat), South Carolina.

Senator Blease said the Postmaster General "continues to send nominations to this Senate when he knows that they have been paid for."

He spoke after Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, had notified the Senate that today he will submit to the Senate a final report on the investigation of patronage conditions in the Southern States by the post office committee.

Demanding to know why Senator Blease had not placed his charges before the investigating committee, Senator Brookhart promised to go over the evidence and, if it warranted, to reopen the inquiry.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE introduction of five young people representing the local high schools into the American School of the Air program last Thursday afternoon is a new idea in the presentation of educational features. Edwin Bruce, Edwin McClintock, Mildred Duryee, Vincent Sullivan and Richard Bowman discussed transportation with Dr. Julius Klein, who conducted the period, from the days when horseback was the fastest mode to the present modern air travel. The School of the Air is broadcast each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock over WMAL and the Columbia Broadcasting System.

When Senator Couzens introduces the Spanish Ambassador over WMAL tomorrow afternoon it will be the Michigan senator's first experience in nation-wide broadcasting.

Mr. Couzens, in the Senate or anywhere else, speaks as little as possible, it being his theory that a speech seldom changes a vote.

Tonight the "Amos 'n' Andy" fans will have to give way once more to grand opera over WRC. The last opera is scheduled for next month.

WJSV plans to put a good one over on WMBG, of Richmond, Va., by moving its Washington studio to Alexandria, thus cutting the Gordian knot of whether the former station should be charged to the District or Virginia. The Mount Vernon Hills station owners have also asked permission to install an automatic frequency control.

Perkinsville, a typical midwestern small town with big city ideas, will take to the air through WLW at 9 o'clock tomorrow evening for the first of a series of eight broadcasts. Dedication ceremonies of the Perkinsville Memorial Hall will be the chief concern of the first broadcast.

"Never have I heard anything more beautiful or sympathetic than Mr. Husing's description of the Taft ceremonies at the United States Capitol," writes Mrs. Marjorie Taylor. "Imagining Mr. Husing to be a young man, well known as a sports announcer, it it was even more effective to hear from the lips of one so young such depth, not only of feeling, but understanding.

"Our well-known poets or writers could never have written anything more exquisitely worded. It was beautiful to listen to."

STATION WRC is supposed to pay the American Society of Composers $5,000 a year for the privilege of using copyrighted music.

Chicago is in danger of being pried loose from her corner on broadcasting facilities in the Middle West.

Wisconsin, acting upon a suggestion of the Radio Commission, has already applied for two of Chicago's choice cleared channels. The Windy City's argument heretofore has been that it served surrounding States better than they could serve themselves.

It is said that Jesse Crawford, famed radio organist, never had a teacher.

COSMETICS.

(Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce.)

Among the materials used for cosmetics purposes, there are a few which present some hazard. Rouge for cheeks or lips has been the cause of serious mercury poisoning, owing to the presence of vermilion (mercury sulphide). Hair removers are, in general, quite corrosive in character, such as calcium sulphydrate with calcium hydroxide, and sometimes poisonous, as calcium hydroxide with arsenic trisulphide.

Dyes used in blackening gray hair generally contain far more of the salts of silver, lead, copper, iron, or bismuth and can cause serious poisoning when taken internally. It is well to treat all materials of this character as poisons.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Short evening wraps are adorably the mode! says Dare. (Dahray Designs.)

Paris, March 14.

JUST simply love 'em! I feel that at last one can have the proper kind of evening wrap with every dress—and before, when an evening wrap consisted of a great lot of material in the form of a coat or cape, and expensive material at that, one couldn't very well have more than one or two.

But this summer you may have more! Because the short evening coat, of expensive material to be sure, but beautifully fur-trimmed, is the mode. At that rate you don't have to hesitate more than a minute to have a wrap with each dress.

Usually these wraps match the dress or are of a deeper shade than the dress, but in another material. And quite as many of them are not fur-trimmed as are.

Know what my advice is? It is to have a short evening coat in lame (lah-may) brocade, showing several colors in the design; evening slippers that match this coat—gold with several colors, and your dresses in chiffons or heavy crepe, each dress one of the colors in this brocade.

* * * *

'N then, I shouldn't tell you this, I s'pose, but I will anyway—you can have a fur collar and cuff set made in such a way that you can sew it onto this evening jacket for evening wear, remove it, and wear it on a daytime coat when you have no use for it as an evening garniture.

* * * *

La Chic Secretaire just must put a word in edgewise here: "I do that very thing and love it. One very lovely set of blue fox, collar and cuffs takes me out to these here gay Paris cafes, and then in the afternoon, when I have to take tea at Ciro's or the Ritz (really have to), voila, fox on rust! Yum, yum!"

* * * *

So-o-o-o-o, next week's illustrated leaflet tells you how to go about making two of these smart little short evening wraps! You can fix up your stamped self-addressed envelope and send it right now to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. And, by the way, if you're not in the market for an evening wrap, remember that these same designs make lovely short coats for afternoon wear, and that they are smarter than smart to wear over afternoon summer dresses.

* * * *

And another letter addressed to Dare will bring you an illustrated leaflet of adorable fan and handkerchief ideas for evening, too. Better get both these leaflets, now, and be all ready for the next delightful soiree—accessories as well as coats.

* * * *

Want to know something sort of smart-ish for spring sports wear? White crepe dress, of course. There's going to be so-o-o-o-o much white. But this particular white dress, seen at Lucile Paray's, has black tiger stripes on the sleeves from the shoulder to the elbow. And a red applique at the waistline, all because the frock is worn with a short red sports coat. It's different!

* * * *

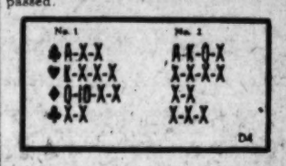
CONTRACT BRIDGE.

When the original bid is three No Trumps, the bidder announces that he has every suit stopped at least once, and a hand that counts at least 21. He may have a hand that counts more than 21, because with anything less than 27 he would not risk a bid of four No Trumps; therefore when the partner of a three No Trump bidder has material assistance, slam possibilities rise in the offing. Of course, the chances of making a slam are far better if the three No Trumps has been bid with 26, 25 or 24, than if it has been with 21, 22 or 23; and the partner can not know what the original bidder's count is. However, when the partner has a hand that counts 9 or more, it is worth while to find out.

In computing the 9 which justifies the jump to four No Trumps, reckon only the 4-3-2-1 count for Aces, Kings, Queens and Jacks, do not include any allowance for two Tens nor for a five-card suit unless it is certain that it can be run.

The three No Trump minimum (21) plus 9 in the hand opposite, a total of at least 30 in the two hands, justifies a jump to four by the partner of the No Trumper. With so high a combined count, four-odd almost surely can be made; and if the No Trump has been bid with 24 or better, the chance of a slam is excellent. The following hands illustrate the minimum strength with which North should bid four No Trumps, South having bid three and West having passed.



Occasionally the hand of the partner of the three No Trump bidder has sufficient strength to bid more than four, but that happening is indeed rare. With a count of 12 he could safely bid five, and with 14 there would be no question about the soundness of bidding six. As a matter of fact, the combined count of 30 almost invariably insures four, the combined count of 32 five, and the combined count of 34 six; so the requirements above given for jumps from three to five or six are very conservative.

Next Saturday we will consider cases in which the bid over partner's three No Trumps should be four of a suit; four of a major being bid to discourage further No Trump efforts, and four of a minor to encourage them.

How to Keep Well

EDISON'S FOOD AND SLEEP.

A RECENT issue of the American Magazine had a story in which Mrs. Edison told of some of the habits of her illustrious husband. He is 83 years of age and far from senile mentally or physically.

The largest single factor in Mr. Edison's longevity is his inheritance. Several of his direct parental ancestors lived more than 100 years. It appears that Mr. Edison should live to vote for five or even six successors to Mr. Hoover unless some accident overtakes him, provided his mother did not introduce a short-lived strain into the family stream. According to the expectancy established by his fathers to the third or fourth generation, Mr. Edison should be inventing synthetic rubber or something else in the year 1950.

About a year ago he had an attack of pneumonia. Fortunately pneumonia is not very prone to leave prolonged aftereffects. When convalescence has been established it is generally found that the organs have not been left crippled.

Mr. Edison is a very light eater. Just now he is living on not much more than milk, bread and fruit. He says few people know how much nourishment a person can get from a single slice of bread. He is a moderately fat man, and he has vigor enough to work hard; therefore it is certain that he eats more than one infers from the story of his habits. This much is certainly true, he does not gorge, nor eat large meals, and he sticks to simple foods.

One of the most interesting parts of the story dealt with the inventor's sleep habits. The writer added up about 6½ hours of sleep daily during his periods of hard work. This is generally divided into two sleep periods, and sometimes more.

After a few days of sustained effort and less than seven hours' sleep, he relaxes and sometimes does not awaken for eighteen hours on a stretch. The probability is that if his days were averaged it would be found that he gets eight hours a day of good sleep. He wastes no time going to sleep or for that matter in breaking through into consciousness. His deafness saves his nervous system much fatigue.

His intense interest in his forward looking work contributes to his good mental health.

LAW USUALLY FOUR WEEKS.

Mrs. M. G. writes: How long will I have to keep my boy in with chicken pox? He is 6 years old. When can I give him a tub bath?

REPLY.

The laws generally specify four weeks. The disease is especially communicable in the early stages.

As soon as he is free from fever you can give him a tub bath. Bathing is not particularly hazardous.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

A Philosophy of Marriage.

DEAR MISS M'DONALD: I was asked the other day by a friend why I married. I replied that I always had liked girls, and when I saw one who was most attractive to me I "fell in love" with her and married her. He said that about 80 per cent of men who married wished they hadn't, as they were disappointed with wives who changed so after marriage! When I got home that evening I asked my wife if she had ever wished that she had not married me, and she replied that such a thought had never entered her head. Seems to me that is not so bad after 27 years of married life.

We both had certain ideals of married life and tried to live up to them, however miserably we may have failed at times. I suppose many men would get "mad," curse and quit after some of our little arguments, but we forgive and forget, and go along together. We have no room for anything like hate. We have grown children to be proud of, and have never been in debt. This would be a rather unnatural world if girls stopped loving and men stopped marrying! One of my precepts in married life was to treat my wife so she would never regret having married me, a job which was somewhat of a large order at times, but the girl had some precepts, too.

There are so many horrible matrimonial failures that it is little wonder that many girls shrink from the step. It is often the case that the bad experience is as bad for the man as for the woman. From the many disastrous failures in married life in these days, it would appear that the girls did not know their man, or must have had rather poor ideals.

For myself I can not see how a man could treat any woman in a manner that he would not care to be treated if in her place. My wife arises, retires, eats and dresses as she likes. She is almost always on the job every evening in the kitchen getting a nice dinner for us all, but in some rare cases we find it in the fireless cooker, already to put on the table, for she had to be absent that time. I know very well that some men, and many of them, would not stand for such things, then there would be a "family quarrel," all because a man was too helpless to get his own dinner at such rare occasions.

Some men think it is an awful outrage for them to get their own breakfasts occasionally! I am not one so helpless. I have gotten mine for 16 years, and think nothing of it. It is not an elaborate meal of seven courses with me! My wife just loves to lie abed mornings till she is thoroughly rested. I might like to, too, but I am not so fortunately situated that I can take such ease! But I am only too glad to see her do so. If people will not conform to the wishes of each other in married life, then things will not run so smoothly. If they love each other they will do so, if not they must try to get along the best they can without it. If I find some imperfections in my wife, I must not forget that she very unfortunately missed marrying a perfect man!

The least men can do in married life is to be fair and square and patient with their wives, who probably are trying the best they can to please. But this is a game that two must take a turn at to make it a balanced bargain, instead of a "howling success."

Our temperaments are very different. My wife takes things easy and never worries about anything. This is a good thing, for worry never gets anybody anywhere but on their backs in bed with a "nervous breakdown." If there were more love and consideration for others in this marriage business, we would hear very little about separations, divorces, &c., even among pairs who were not perfectly mated. I would not live with a woman who smoked or drank, for such habits do not match up with my ideals for a woman. I never have myself, so I saw to it that I did not get that kind, but if I had married one who did I would not feel I had any right to try to change her afterward.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

THE contrast between the expense of picture making in the early days of the industry and the present prodigal moment is one of the sharpest known to man.

In the lean, hungry days when such heroes as Romaine Fielding wrote, directed and starred in their own pictures, every dollar figuratively was divided into many pieces so that one piece might be spent at a time. Had anyone suggested to Francis Boggs and Thomas Persons that a movie day would ever come when a picture would cost a million dollars, they probably would have looked upon the prognosticator as a stark, staring maniac.

Boggs, a director, and Persons, his cameraman, rented a Chinese laundry and established the first "studio" in southern California 22 years ago last month.

However, before Boggs and Persons started the studio for Col. William Selig, they had to complete a one-reel version of "The Count of Monte Cristo." The interiors had been made in Chicago. Ignoring the slight technical matter of an entire change of cast, the rest of the picture was to be made on the West Coast.

An idea of the importance to those film pioneers of a sum of money that would be considered insignificant today is given by Terry Ramsaye in his "Million and One Nights."

"The big punch of the picture was to portray Monte rising from the sea. Persons made up Monte's double with a white wig and proceeded to the seashore to shoot the scene," Ramsaye recalls.

"A great wave broke over Monte just as he got the signal to rise," Ramsaye continues. "The hero failed to emerge. He went down carrying the title role with him. That was not in the script.

"'Hey!' Persons shouted to Boggs, 'I put up a $10 deposit on that wig.'

"The director and the cameraman stood gasping at each other, stunned with the horror of the thought. The wig was drifting toward Honolulu.

"Boggs and Persons both leaped into the sea to save the wig. While they were out there they saved the actor, too. It was very little extra trouble, anyway."

Winnie Lightner, the Warner Brothers' new star, currently appearing in "She Couldn't Say No," her first individual vehicle, at the Earle, has quickly developed into the most popular woman singer on the screen. She is often referred to as the "female Al Jolson," because she can put across the "commercial" song—that is, the song that so appeals to the public that they buy the music and play and sing it in the home—and the "special material" song, intended for popular entertainment because it fits the personality of the singer, but can not readily be "put across" as a home song.

In "She Couldn't Say No," the customary Lightner vim and gusto are devoted to two hits—"Watching My Dreams Go By" and "A Darn Fool Woman Like Me." Her next vehicle, "Hold Everything," will contain three wows, as you may gather from such titles as "Isn't This a Cockeyed World?" "Physically Fit" and "Take It On the Chin."

Winnie ought to know something about that "Physically Fit" number. I understand she has just reduced from that 'way down to this!

Nikita Balieff has just announced that his Chauve-Souris will discontinue the road tour of the Publix Theaters that was to have continued until the last of May and extended as far West as Chicago and Kansas City. The tour ended at the Brooklyn Paramount Theater night before last by amicable agreement of both parties to the contract. It was found that the intimate nature of the Chauve-Souris was completely vitiated by the enormous reaches of the large-capacity modern picture houses.

Why not substitute the Barnum & Bailey Circus?

When the "Cohens and Kellys" aren't waiting for a Cohen they are waiting for a Kelly. That explains why it has taken so long to get that original cast back together again. George Sidney has been such a hit on the stage in "The Kibitzer" that he couldn't be bothered about pictures—and if he could, Charlie Murray has been otherwise occupied. But at the R.-K.-O.-Keith Theater this week you will find them back together again, with Vera Gordon and Kate Price playing the wives—which ought to make "Scotland" one of the most laughable of the series.

And with St. Patrick's Day Monday.....

It goes back a good many years to a day long before he ever got anywhere near a featured spot in any stage production, but every time I hear that Senor Don Alfonso Zelaya, the philosopher of the pianoforte in Loew's "Venetian Carnival," beginning at the Palace today, is to be in our midst even momentarily, it always makes me thirsty.

"Men, Without Women," the John Ford production opening today at the Fox, is the first all-talking picture, so far as I know, without a women in the cast. The only woman of importance in the story never appears, and those who do are only a few extras in the opening sequence in a Shanghai "bund"—whatever that is.

I hope I forget all about my income tax blank—blank, blank, blankety, blank!

WHITE HOUSE SORTS AND SPORTS

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

GOLF has lost prestige in the White House since Warren G. Harding sheathed his blades for the last time, for Calvin Coolidge has never had a club in his hands and Herbert Hoover's only known athletic indulgence is hurling the medicine ball against the abdomens of his Cabinet members, with the exception, I suppose, of Uncle Andy Mellon, whose abdomen is merely nominal, and letting them hurl it back at his own.

This is a poor taste in sport, to my way of thinking, and I doubt that even the presidential sanction will make it popular if only because a medicine ball is so conspicuous. Around the house it can't be dropped into a drawer or umbrella stand, and it probably requires a room of its own which would make the game expensive as well as peculiar. It isn't a game anyway. It is merely something that some people do.

Trudy Ederle carried a medicine ball to France with her when she went to swim the Channel, and not only was it always falling out of taxicabs in Paris, but the customs inspector at Cherbourg was very suspicious and wanted to rip the seams to look for undeclared firearms, cigarettes, matches or other dutiable or contraband goods. At last he relented, but I think he had his doubts even then, for as Trudy walked out of the customs shed he was still insisting that that ball was much too big to be thrown any distance or knocked any distance with a club, even by a mad American.

Harding Learned and Unlearned Game.

The last of the golfing Presidents to date, Mr. Harding, golfed enough to do for several succeeding administrations, though. One winter he played every course on the East Coast of Florida from Jacksonville to Miami, and an attested card for a 72 on any fairly respectable golf course was as good as a letter of introduction to the President and an invitation to lunch at the White House.

He was an unhappy golfer, forever asking and trying to act upon advice. The famous pros who came through the Capital in his time would show him their many contradictory grips and swings and stances, and he was always unlearning all that had been told him on very high authority the week before and trying to learn some new way.

Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen went out with him in turn and he watched their sharp, crisp iron shots go arching to the greens with that longing which only the hopeless dub can understand, feeling in his soul, no doubt that there was one fulfillment in life still to be desired as the President of the U. S. A. He struggled and persevered but when, by chance, he had grooved the swing of his woods for a few holes, his short irons began to wobble or his putts would lie down and die yards from the cup so that the sevens and eights and nines and even the ghastly tens accumulated on his card, just the same.

Wilson Was Golfer But a Loner.

He may have broken one hundred once or twice on some pool-table course, but he always came trudging in, sad and beaten from his rounds on the standard layouts. And, as President, he explored few easy pastures for the more pretentious clubs were always eager to do themselves the honor of entertaining him, and they confronted him with a maddening variety of traps, thickets, quarries, lagoons and tall grasses.

Woodrow Wilson had been a golfer, too, in his vigorous days, but where Harding was gregarious, Wilson was a cold and unyielding loner. He sometimes golfed with the second Mrs. Wilson, who played an interesting game and seldom needed more than 98, and before their marriage he was seen occasionally stalking over the hilly grounds of the Washington Country Club in Virginia with one of his daughters.

But he did not golf with men and generally he played solo, a fairly con-

Rules Prevent Further Play; Game to Be Rescheduled.

A GROUP of high school basket ball stars of the recent inter-high series, sporting the colors of the Emerson & Orme Pirates, last night passed and shot their way sensationally to a surprising 41 to 22 victory over the Walters Whirlinds, pride of the Southwest, in one of the most intense games of the District A. A. U. tournament to date.

The contest climaxed an afternoon and noght of varied exhibitions in which the Stewart Bros. Photographers scored a one-sided victory over the Potomac A. C., in the 145-pound class, 4 4to 19. The Eagles, defending women's champions, romped to victory over the Aloysius A. C. Sextet, 2 7to 5.

The Fives Club, of Charlottesville, Va., battled its way to the hardest earned decision on the program in turning back a game, clever Raymond Riordan School Team, in the 100-pound class, 34 to 23.

A bit of the unusual was injected when the junior girls' inaugural game ended in a 28-28 deadlock with honors evenly divided between the Georgetown and Cloverette Teams, both playground products. Rules forbidding extra periods, the contest will have to be rescheduled.

Girls' Teams Equally Matched in Opener.

A 28-28 game between the Cloverettes and the Georgetown Sextets, unable to be carried into extra periods by girls' court rules prohibiting such a procedure, marked the day's play of two games fought in the A. A. U. basket ball tournament, sponsored by The Washington Post, in the George Washington University Gymnasium yesterday afternoon. The game will be replayed later in the tournament schedule.

In the first game of the double-header, the Boys Club Optimists advanced to the second round of the 100-pound class when they eliminated the Knight Midgets, of Alexandria, 29 to 21, in a game closely contested for three-quarters of the battle.

The tie of the Cloverette-Georgetown game was justifiable from every standpoint, inasmuch as the two teams battle nip and tuck all the way, with neither in the front by more than two points at any time. Holding but a slight lead at half-time, 16 to 15, the Cloverettes were the group forced to tie the score in the last minute of play to prevent their elimination, Georgetown holding a 2-point lead with seconds to play.

Charlottesville Lads Clever Passers.

Charlottesville's doughty little Fives Club Five made an impressive showing in turning back another clever combination representing the Raymond Riordon School of New York in the opening number on the night's program. This 100-pound battle attracted much attention, and only after an unrelenting attack kept traveling at full pace throughout was the Charlottesville Team awarded the verdict, 34 to 23.

Roberts and Strickler shared honors with Huffman for the victors.

Scott Was Hit Low Twice, Maybe More, Says One Expert.

LONDON, March 14 (A.P.).—A film advertised as the "uncut" production of the international heavyweight fiasco Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott staged in Miami, Fla., last month was shown in London for the first time today and brought forth opinions from the home "experts" that Scott was fouled in the fight Sharkey won on a technical knockout in the third round.

B. J. Evans, boxing expert of the London Star, declared in his story on the fight pictures that "Scott was clearly hit low on five occasions in the third round. Neither of the two fouls claimed by Scott could be seen, as Scott's back was to the camera, but it was obvious by the way his body sagged that Scott had been punched in a questionable manner."

J. W. H. T. Douglas, one of England's foremost boxing referees, said, in the Evening News, that "one can not be definite" as to fouls owing to Scott's position, but that it was his strong impression that Scott was fouled twice in the third round.

"Summing up the film, I should say that Scott was fouled definitely twice, possibly four times," he wrote.

Intercollegiate Golf Tourney to Oakmont

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—The national intercollegiate golf championship will be contested this year over the course of the Oakmont Country Club, Oakmont, Pa., June 23-28, it was announced today by H. H. Ramsay, chairman of the championship committee of the United States Golf Association.

Walker-Gamber Win $5,000 Four-Ball Tilt

Miami, Fla., March 14 (A.P.).—Cyril Walker, veteran professional from Saddle River, N. J., and his young partner, Clarence Gamber, Boca Raton, Fla., won the $5,000 international four-ball match here today. Walker and Gamber defeated Harry Hampton, Chicago, and Neil McIntyre, Indianapolis, Ind., 1 up in their eighteen-hole play-off match.

Walker put his team 1 up on the sixteenth green, and they halved the seventeenth with birdie 3s and the eighteenth with par 5s.

Walker and Gamber will receive $1,500 for first-prize money, with Hampton and McIntyre getting $1,000 as the runners-up.

15-Year Name Limit, New Jockey Club Rule

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—Names of horses can not be duplicated for fifteen years under a new rule promulgated by the Jockey Club. Under a former rule duplication on horses' names was forbidden for ten years, the new regulation increasing the time limit by five years.

The Jockey Club also voted to reduce the number of stewards from nine to seven.

Miss Norelius Foregoes Career Upon Marriage

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., March 14 (A.P.).—Martha Norelius, 21-year-old Olympic swimming champion, who will be married here tomorrow to Joe Wright, jr., famous Canadian oarsman, has decided to abandon her swimming career because she feels she has "gotten all there is out of the sport."

"I see nothing to be gained by further competition," she said today. "The real fun of the game was lost after I had won my first and only professional race and realized that the thrill of victory was gone."

Tilden Beats Italian To Reach Nice Finals

Nice, France, March 14 (A.P.).—Bill Tilden entered the final of the Nice singles tennis championship today, defeating Giorgio de Stafani, third ranking Italian, 6—0, 6—4, 6—2.

In the men's doubles semifinals Tilden and Wilbur F. Coen, jr., defeated the Anglo-Italian combination of Charles Kingsley and De Stefani after a hard battle, 7—5, 6—3, 4—6, 2—6, 6—1.

Howley Adds Spirit, Punch To Reds

Bats of Meusel and Heilmann Promise to Add Power.

Note—This is another of a series of first-hand Associated Press stories on major league baseball prospects.

By BRIAN BELL.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 14 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds do not believe in signs reading, "Walk, don't run." They plan to do a lot of running during the National League race and have started their program with a rush.

Dan Howley, the new manager, has had his pitchers running mile after mile around the big practice field and when the games start the order will be "run in and run out" for everybody.

Howley brought the St. Louis Browns from seventh place to third in the American League by running and he believes the same tactics will be effective in the senior circuit.

"If you are hustling every minute you will get a break," says Howley "So we will run in to hit and run out to field, no matter whether we are a mile ahead or a mile behind."

Added Strength Unquestioned.

There seems to be no question that the current edition of the Reds, under new management, with Sidney Weil as president, offer a stronger front than that presented by the seventh-place club of last year.

Power has been added in the big bats of Harry Heilmann and Bob Meusel and the defense was strengthened when Leo Durocher, a sensational fielding shortstop, was imported also from the American League.

The Reds will be able to put practically two teams in the field, one boasting a big punch and the other carrying a sensational fielding edge. If the powerful guns of the offense pile up a lead, the defensive stars can be rushed into the game to hold it.

The new manager is feeling his way cautiously at first, but every indication points to a starting outfield lineup of Meusel in left, Evar Swanson, one of the game's fast runners, in center and the clouting Heilmann in right. This trio will be supported by Ethan Allen, Curtis Walker, and perhaps Earl Webb, the former Chicago Cub.

No Opposition for George Kelly.

George Kelly, the tall first baseman, not so fast as he was but still a long distance hitter and great thrower, has no opposition. Hughie Critz, one-two-three in any rating of second basemen, is again available, but with a capable substitute present in the person of Tony Cuccinello, the Columbus recruit, who has hit the ball as far as any one in practice.

Horace Ford, who played shortstop last year, will start again at the position, but with Durocher ready to dash in on a moment's notice. The third base competition between "Jersey Joe" Stripp and Charlie Dressen may continue some time. Stripp, completely restored to health after an appendicitis operation, has made an impressive early showing.

The pitching rests in the hands of the baseball fates. There are an even dozen in the camp and every one has a chance, although only 10 can be retained after June 1. Fred (Red) Lucas, one of the best pitchers and all-round performers in either league, will head the right-handers and the accomplished but outlucked Jakie May, is a capable lefthander.

Donohue Aided by More Weight.

With this start Manager Howley will have to select eight others. Pete Donohue, a veteran with nine years' service on the team behind him, although he is not 30 years of age, is 22 pounds heavier this year than ever before and as he has never carried the weight his 6 feet 2 inches demanded, this should make him a bet-

Harris Gratified at Club's Speed on Bases; Two Rookie Infielders Released by Cards

McGraw Complains of Weather; Training Pace Retarded.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 14 (A.P.).—Branch Rickey, vice president and business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, announced today that Joel Hunt, third baseman, would be sent back to Houston, of the Texas League, and Eddie Delker, another infielder, would be sent to Rochester, of the International League. Both Houston and Rochester are affiliated with the Cardinals' farm system.

Rickey said he still had hopes Sparkey Adams would play second, allowing Frankie Frisch to move over to third, leaving Andy High for utility infield duty.

Victory Best Tonic, Says Ens.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 14 (A.P.).—Rain held the Pittsburgh Pirates indoors today and thoughts turned to the first spring exhibition game, to be played Sunday with San Francisco, of the Pacific Coast League.

Manager Jewel Ens said he would urge his boys to win these exhibition games because "victory is one of the best tonics in the world."

Heilman Leads Reds In Beating Rookies.

Orlando, Fla., March 14 (A.P.).—The big bat of Harry Heilmann, the Cincinnati Reds' new outfielder, led the Red regulars to a 6-to-0 victory over the Colts in a five-inning practice game, the first of the season, at the training camp here today. Heilmann gathered in two bingles, one of them a home run which scored one man ahead of him.

Allen, Ford, Meusel and Heilmann, who batted in that order, accounted for six of the regulars' eight hits, while Kelly, in fifth place, and Stripp, in seventh, each added a safety.

Tony Cucinello played second, replacing Hughey Critz, regular, who is suffering from a lame shoulder. Johnny Gooch was the regulars' catcher, while Archie Campbell, St. Paul recruit, was the starting pitcher.

McGraw Disappointed With Weather.

San Antonio, Tex., March 14 (A.P.).—Wintry and wet weather have put the New York Giants nearly two weeks behind schedule, John McGraw said today, as rain forced him to give his athletes half a day off.

"The weather so far has been a disappointment," said Mr. McGraw. "Last year it was ideal, and we were almost ready to go at this stage of the training season. Now we are at least ten days behind, and some of the holdouts won't be ready for weeks."

Robins on Long Trip To Meet Macks.

Clearwater, Fla., March 14 (A.P.).—There was a complete abstinence from baseball for members of the Brooklyn Robins today as the athletes began a 300-mile automobile ride to Miami for the first of two gmes with the Philadelphia Athletics tomorrow.

51 Probable Starters For Grand National

Liverpool, Eng., March 14 (A.P.).—Fifty-one horses are probable starters in the 91st running of the Grand National over the famous Aintree course of 4½ miles on March 28.

The list of probable starters shows last year's winner, Gregalach, owned by Mrs. M. A. Gemmel, will again be ridden by Jockey Everett. W. Scott, champion jockey of the season, will have the mount of Lordi.

Easter Hero, owned by J. H. Whitney, is listed to be ridden by T. Cullinan and to carry top weight.

Wantage, Eng., March 14 (A.P.).—Easter Hero, J. H. Whitney's steeplechaser, which was reported lame yesterday, was out for exercise at his home training grounds today. His trainer, J. Anthony, said that he walked quite soundly.

Mathewson Greatest, Connie Mack Opines

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—In his speech at the Al Lang baseball dinner here last night, Connie Mack, manager of the world's champion Athletics, declared that in his opinion Christy Mathewson was the greatest pitcher of all time.

"Rube Waddell was the best left-hander the game ever developed," declared Connie, "but Christy Mathewson was the greatest pitcher that I ever saw. In the world series of 1905 he shut out the Philadelphia Club three straight times and this remarkable record has never been equaled.

"I don't think it ever will be."

Durst and Gehrig Hit Homers in Slugfest of Yankees.

TAMPA, Fla., March 14 (A.P.).—The Detroit Tigers will have a good base-running team this year with such sprinters as Johnson, Funk, Stone, Rogell, McManus and Gehringer, the latter the league leader in base stealing last season.

Manager Stanley Harris is eager to match the speed of this aggregation against the throwing arms of rival catchers, but realizes that there has been diminution of the value of base-running ability since the advent of the home-run era. He has encouraged speed, however, in the training camp here, and is well satisfied with the results.

Peck Selects Rookies For Game Today.

New Orleans, La., March 14 (A.P.).—George Detore today was appointed to the lead-off position on the Cleveland Indians when they tackle the New Orleans Pelicans at the first spring exhibition game in the Indian training camp here tomorrow. He will play third base.

Roger Peckinpaugh, the manager, selected an all-rookie line-up for the game.

Barnes, Myer Lead Batting Assault

Each Gets 3 Safeties Off Minor Leaguers in First Game.

Pelicans Held to 3 Hits by Marberry, Hadley, Brown.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 14.—Although the heavy, soggy field was supposed to be just made to order for the Pelicans, of New Orleans, the Nats proved to be more at home in the heavy going here this afternoon and romped home on the long end of a 15-to-1 score in their first exhibition game of the season.

Johnson started Fred Marberry, then called on Irving Hadley, and followed with Lloyd Brown on the hill, and all were effective. Marberry was touched for the only three hits and the lone run credited to the Pelicans. Then the Nats settled down and quickly stepped out in front, thanks largely to the big bludgeons of Red Barnes and Buddie Myer. The former propelled home no less than seven runs with two singles and a triple, while Myer made similar hits, but not at such timely moments.

Manager Larry Gilbert also used a trio of boxmen, Joe Berry, Cecil Holloway and (Uncle) Munn, but only the second named was effective. Berry granting eight runs in three innings while seven runs were garnered off Munn's slants in the only frame he pitched. The game was stopped after the seventh inning.

Marberry Yields Run in First.

When Hadley relieved Marberry on the hill starting the fourth the Nats were enjoying a seven-run lead, the result of four-run rallies in the sec-

Condition, Not Money, to Govern His Comeback, Dempsey Asserts

DETROIT, March 14 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey said here tonight that he intends to go into training as soon as he completes the theatrical tour in which he is engaged at present.

"If I find that I can get into proper condition," said the former heavyweight champion, "I will be ready to meet the outstanding claimant of the title."

Physical condition, rather than financial considerations, will determine his future course, Dempsey asserted. "It won't make any difference if I have a million dollars or haven't a dime," he said, "if I can't get back into condition, I will remain retired."

The trouble with the heavyweight situation at present, Dempsey believes is that "there are too many logical contenders and not sufficient elimination to produce a champion."

He outlined what he considers the proper way of arriving at a title claimant. Tuffy Griffiths should be matched with Otto Von Porat, he said, the winner to meet the survivor of the Jack Sharkey-Max Schmeling bout.

"The ultimate survivor should be matched with Carnera, provided he survives a real test," continued Mr. Dempsey, "and then I might stage my comeback with the title at stake."

In a general discussion of heavyweight prospects he remarked that Carnera "is apt to come through and be a foreign menace and will have to be eliminated. Perhaps George Godfrey, the big colored fellow, could do that, but George has about lost interest through his lack of getting a chance among the contenders."

Dempsey referred to reports that he will fight Carnera in September as "the bunk."

Dempsey-Carnera Bout Offer May Be a Million

St. Louis, Mo., March 14.—Mique Molloy, Chicago fight promoter, announced here this afternoon that he would offer a purse of $1,000,000 for a fight between Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, and Primo Carnera, giant Italian contender, if Carnera wins his fight with Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis, here next Monday night.

The promoter said he had discussed the matter recently with Dempsey in Cleveland, and that while not giving a definite answer, Dempsey said he would consider the offer if he could get in condition and if Carnera were not defeated in the meantime.

BUCKNELL-GEORGETOWN BOXERS CLASH TONIGHT

Bouts to Close 1930 Season For G. U.

Fish, Bordeau Meet Strong Bison Foes in eFatures.

THE curtain on the 1930 local indoor collegiate season will be rung down tonight when an imposing Bucknell boxing array invades Gan Gymnasium to meet Georgetown's ringmen. The first bout is scheduled to begin at 9 o'clock, and the only thing lacking is the room to put many eager fight fans who would crowd their way into the hall if given the opportunity.

Only those holding tickets will be admitted, and there are few persons outside of Georgetown's student body and alumni who have been fortunate enough to obtain the valued pasteboards.

The welterweight and the light-heavyweight bouts will cofeature the progra of seven matches, with Bucknell bringing a man in each class who has been defeated but once in his entire college career. Georgetown will not be without prestige in the bouts, however, as Capt. Charley Fish, intercollegiate champion at 145 pounds, will face one of the visitors, while Buddy Bordeau, South Atlantic light-heavyweight titleholder will defend the Blue and Gray in that class.

Bucknell Captain to Test Bordeau.

Bordeau will meet one of the best in college ranks in Lou Mutzel, captain of the visitors, who was defeated for the first time in six years of fighting last Saturday night, by N. Y. U.'s champion of that class. Bordeau will be fighting to atone for his "surprise" knockout suffered at the hands of a Western Maryland ringman in his last go.

The program:

Yardunno	125 pounds	Beerner
Murphy	135 pounds	Marchesne

All of the Rosedale players who took part in the game last Sunday against the North Point Club, of Baltimore, except Harding, have been suspended for the remainder of the season by the local association. They may make application for reinstatement at the first meeting of that body next September.

Central Swimmers Win Over Woodward School

er performer. Eppa Rixey, approaching 39 and with 17 years in the National League, may not start many games but he will be in at the finish of a number.

Doug McWeeny, a big fellow with a great fast ball, who did Brooklyn little good last year, is a good prospect, as are Benny Frey, up from Nashville, Silas Johnsonen, who spent last season on option at Columbus, and Archie Campbell, purchased from St. Paul. Campbell has had two American League trials and shows promise.

Ray Kolp, who is seldom at a loss for something to say; Marvin Gudat, a left-hander; Ken Ash and Rube Ehrhardt were members of the pitching staff of last year but were not called to the mound so often as the other fellows. They may see more activity this season.

The Reds have only two catchers, Clyde Sukeforth and Johnny Gooch, but both are good offensively and defensively. Sukeforth hit .354 last year, his first season as a regular.

Howley makes only one promise: "We will run," he says.

G. W. STARS AID DE LUXE.

The De Luxe A. C. basketers, strengthened by Dick Castell and Max Jeweller, of the George Washington University varsity, and Jack Hickey, from the Catholic U. team, will play the Montrose A. C. composed of former Western High players in the Eastern High Gym tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

NATS MAKE 16 SAFETIES IN VICTORY

ond and third frames. The Pelicans had broken the ice in the opener, molding a tally from Moore's single and Vosmik's triple, this latter blow clearing Rice's head by yards.

Four hits figured in both of the Nats' big innings. In the second with two out and two on, Marberry and West singled, Rice walked, and then Barnes lined one to left which scored two mates. A walk, hit batsman and singles by Hayes, McLeod, Barnes and Myer turned the trick in the next canto, Barnes' drive, this time to right, propelling two more mates over the plate.

Hadley pitched hitless ball during his shift, while Holloway kept the four hits he granted fairly well scattered. But Munn, third Pelican flinger, was not so effective. In the seventh, he gave Barnes a pass as a starter and Myer followed with a triple. Then two more passes, two errors, a passed ball, singles by Hayes and Phelps and a triple by Barnes were good for six more markers. At this stage, Umpire Van Grafian mercifully called a halt to the proceedings.

Burke Fast Gaining Best Form.

Pitcher Bob Burke who, unlike the other members of the Johnson cast, has been craving flesh instead of trying to reduce, is fast rounding to form. He has been sawing wood and saying nothing ever since he showed up here and today cut loose for the first time, making the batters look quite weak during the usual wand drill.

One fellow whom he did not fool to any marked degree was Emile (Red) Barnes, who will fill Goose Goslin's shoes if the "Wild Goose of the Potomac" continues to stand pat on his salary demands. Barnes seems to be uncertain in the field when the sun is shining brightly and the powers that be plan on giving him plenty of work with the dark glasses on from now on.

Regarding Goslin, he and President Clark Griffith are playing the well-known checker game, each contending that it is the other's move and neither being willing to budge. Should the big fly chaser remain out the entire season, as he threatens to do, the question now before the house is, "What would he gain by it?" He still would have only his poor 1929 season staring him in the face with the doubt added that an off-year at his age likely would throw him back as a player.

The "Goose" probably realizes this and some of the players are laying bets that he will show up just as soon as the Nats shift to the Chattanooga camp. Although Goslin's failure to report lays him open to a fine and suspension it is understood that Owner Griffith, who likes the player and thinks that he merely is being badly advised, is not expected to crack the whip for several more days. In fact, it is understood that he will take no action against Goslin provided he shows up in time to get himself in shape by the time the season starts; otherwise, if he does change his mind and accepts terms, his salary won't start until he is in playing condition.

The Nats are looking forward to a cruise to the Gulf of Mexico next Monday afternoon as the guests of the Coast Guard head of this district.

TERROR RING SQUAD SET FOR NAVY

Coach Harlow Gives Men Final Prep for Tomorrow.

WESTMINSTER, Md., March 14. On the eve of the meet with Navy the Western Maryland Boxing Team took stiff workouts today. Dick Harlow wants to be sure that every one of his boys will be in condition when they go up against the well-trained Tars tomorrow night.

For the Terrors the outcome of the encounter with Navy will have an important bearing on the Western Maryland line-up at the intercollegiate championship tournament to be held in Philadelphia next week. Last year Penn State came out first, with Navy second and Western Maryland third.

This year, however, the Tars have shown great strength, handily defeating Penn State, who gave Penn a 6-to-1 trimming last Saturday.

Maret, Klepac Meet In Feature.

In this Saturday night's contest the chances will be against the Terrors, for Navy has not lost a boxing meet in ten years. Harlow will use the results as a gauge for determining his line-up in the intercollegiates, and it is the feeling of many that such a change may be warranted.

The feature bout of the evening will probably be in the 160-pound class between Moret and Ted Klepac, captain of the Terrors.

Takoma Tigers to Hold Baseball Meeting Soon

Baseball for the Takoma Tigers will officially make its bow when the Suburbanites hold an important meeting next Monday night. The new Takoma bowling alleys will be the scene, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The Tigers were winners of the Montgomery County championship last year. Another strong team is the prospect this season with the many talented players lined up.

Navy Nine May Play Nationals on May 19

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 14.—The Naval Academy Baseball Team may clash with the Washington Nationals in an exhibition game here, it was learned today. The tentative date listed by Navy athletic authorities is May 19.

If the meeting with the Nationals is brought about, the game will add materially to an already varied and interesting schedule for the Tars. Aside from the fact that the regular schedule includes games with eighteen college teams and two dates yet to be filled, the Middies have booked a game with the Baltimore Orioles on April 7; will engage in two practice contests with Yale, while the Elis are on their annual Southern trip, the dates being April 3 and 4, and practice workouts also are likely with the New Haven Team of the Eastern League, which will come here for about two weeks training early in April.

Navy's only game away from home will be with Duke at Durham, N. C., April 5, and the Blue Devils will play a return game here on May 3.

Massanutten Five Had Banner Season

Woodstock, Va., March 14.—Massanutten Military Academy won the South Atlantic prep school championship, winning 22 out of 24 games, and not losing a single game in the South. They scored 1,109 points to their opponents' 637, averaging 47 points a game.

McCracken, forward, and Flennken, forward, scored over 500 points for the purple and gold quint. Donley, center, controlled the tip-off against every opposing center. Nagle, Kennedy and Capt. Cuomo played a consistent game at guard; Sheehan, guard, played well, also. Cover, Buonano, Caito were dependable forwards, as was Cole. Maust, center, was a dependable substitute at Donley's position.

Richards Beats Heston For Southern Pro Title

Palm Beach, Fla., March 14 (A.P.). Vincent Richards, former national doubles and singles champion, defeated Paul L. Heston, of Washington, D. C., to win the Southern professional championship at the Palm Beach Tennis Club this afternoon. The score was 6—0, 7—5, 6—3.

Heston, who has been runner-up in the Southern championship tourney three times and won the first national professional title four years ago, was outclassed by the former amateur ace today.

Richards covered the court well, dropped a fast service and killed lobs with deadly aim. The Washington player pursued a careful defensive course and because of this was forced into a number of errors by Richards' cannon-like volley.

Finals of the doubles division, bringing together Richards and George Agutter, dean of American tennis professionals, with Heston and Charles M. Wood, jr., are scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

Silver Bullet, on Beach, Idle Due to Visibility

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 14 (A. P.).—In a drizzling rain Kaye Don today took his Sunbeam Silver Bullet racing machine to the beach sands for a brief christening ceremony and to oblige a battery of photographers, as the rain and poor visibility prevented the British racing driver from making a trial run at low speed along the famous beach way.

Mrs. Rota Livesay, Don's sister, christened the huge machine, breaking a bottle of champagne over the steel. The bottle was gaily decorated with the British colors.

Don had little to say about the probabilities of his record attempt.

"I have been asked numerous times since arriving in this country as to what speed I hope to attain," he said. "It is impossible to say at this time. I must wait for the preliminary trials and other determining factors."

After the photographers clicked away at the Silver Bullet from every angle it was taken back to its garage.

Doeg Defeats Pare In Florida Net Finals

Ormond Beach, Fla., March 14 (A. P.).—John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., third national ranking player, won the championship of the Florida East Coast tennis here today defeating Emmet Pare, Dayton, Ohio, in straight sets, 6—2, 6—1, 6—2.

Each won his first two services but the Californian broke through Pare's service in the sixth game to start the next game on the long side of a 4—2 count.

Pare made his best showing in this set the last four games going to deuce before Doeg finally broke through for the win.

The first three games in the last set went to Doeg who allowed his opponent but four points, Pare winning the fourth on Doeg's service.

The next two games were Doeg's, but Pare garnered a win in the seventh when Doeg netted four easy returns, the latter retaliating, however, to win a love game on his own service and win the match and title.

STOCK PRICES CLOSE IRREGULARLY LOWER

COPPER SHARES SLUMP

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—Bears took advantage of the stock market's disappointingly indifferent response to the cheapest money in recent years today to launch an aggressive attack against the copper, food and other selected shares, which turned prices irregularly lower in the final hour of trading. Prices were working higher under the leadership of the oils when blocks of 5,000 shares were dumped upon the market. Trading was in large volume, the day's turnover approaching 4,000,000 shares.

The cut in the New York Reserve Bank's rate had been so widely forecast that it could scarcely have been expected to provide an impetus toward higher levels. The responses of the market to the previous two reductions in the rate were not impressive. Bank rate reductions, however, have so long been hailed as bullish developments, that failure of the market to make the orthodox response caused considerable uneasiness. In reflection of the lower rate, call money renewed at 3½ per cent for the first time in nearly four years. Time money and bankers acceptance rates were also shaded. The cheapness of money was accentuated by the piling up of funds at the banks against the March 15 income tax payments.

Weekly business and trade reviews were slightly more cheerful than last week. Bradstreet's reported that the expected enlivening of wholesale trade was finally perceptible at several points, and that employment conditions have tended to improve since February. Dun's said, "The measured pace of the recovery and its uneven course reflect the presence of numerous retarding factors, yet the foundation for subsequent advance is being gradually strengthened."

Auto Industry Retrenchment Seen.

That the automobile industry is planning to cope with a lessened consumption this year by raising prices and effecting savings through refraining from model changes was indicated by the heads of General Motors and Chrysler, returning to Miami after a yachting trip to the West Indies. President Sloan, of General Motors, said: "We anticipate a good year in business, but can not expect it to parallel last year's output. However, general business conditions are on the upgrade and will continue to be."

The advance in the oils was aided by further strengthening of crude prices in California, and rumors of impending upturns in the mid-continent area. Standards of New Jersey, New York and California rose moderately to still new peak levels for the year, but encountered heavy profit taking when the market was unsettled near the close, and ended the day with losses of a point or so. Several of the so-called independents also sold up further into new high territory for the recovery, but generally reacted before the close. Simms was a conspicuous exception, ending the day at 31, up 2 points and a new 1930 high.

A few of the rails and utilities were firm. Atlantic Coast Line, Electric Power & Light and Federal Light & Traction reached new highs for the movement, and American and Foreign Power rallied. Colorado Fuel, Goodyear, Checker Cab, and General Refractories were among other issues reaching new top prices for the year.

Anaconda Copper Slumps.

The drive against the coppers was aided by reports of small sales of the red metal, and rumors of increasing difficulty in maintaining the price level. Anaconda touched 69½, a new low for the year, and off more than 2 points. Kennecott sold at 55, its previous 1930 minimum.

Bears evidently took advantage of the rather unsatisfactory initial annual statement of standard brands to depress the food shares, although the company encountered unusual organization expenses during its first year, and reports recent improvement. The stock was driven down about 2 points to 22½, a new 1930 low. General Foods and Purity Bakeries were also sold, the latter touching a new bottom at 74½, off about 5 points. International Telephone was also under heavy pressure, evidently on the basis of the increase in capitalization through the offer of rights announced last night. The stock dropped nearly 5 points to within 1½ of its 1930 final minimum. Losses of a point or two were numerous among leading issues.

The commodity markets showed a better tone, on the whole. Wheat was heavy for a time, but rallied on bullish weather and crop reports. March and May closed about a cent lower, but July ended the day fractionally higher. Cotton rallied on a somewhat better than expected consumption report, and closed 85 cents to $1.25 a bale higher.

Foreign exchanges eased slightly, sterling cables ruling at $4.88 3-16, off ½.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—Slight early declines were followed by advances in cotton today. May contracts sold up from 14.54 to 14.90, or 29 points net higher and more than $4 a bale above the low level of last Monday, on covering and trade buying. May closed at 14.86, with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 17 to 25 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 5 points to a decline of 3 points. There may have been some selling on the indifferent late cables from Liverpool. On the other hand, the census report placing domestic consumption for February at 495,204 bales, exclusive of linters, was somewhat above the forecast, although it made a bearish comparison with last year's consumption of 594,720 bales for the same month. This was not mentioned prominently as a factor, but it may have led to a little buying, and after showing net declines of about 2 to 7 points during the first few minutes, prices turned steadier.

Offerings were relatively light after the early selling had run its course, and there were flurries of buying from time to time during the day. This was supposed to include buying for both domestic and foreign trade account as well as covering by speculative shorts. Realizing sales were absorbed on slight setbacks, and the best prices of the day and movement were reached in the late trading when July sold at 15.11 and the new October contract at 14.97. Closing quotations were a few points off from the best under realizing.

Traders seem to be paying less attention to wheat than recently. Much of the buying was attributed to covering, but there were rumors that contracts sold here recently against stocks of cotton goods or foreign growths of cotton were being covered. The easier ruling of money rates was considered a favorable factor, and there were reports that if cotton held steady considerable business might be placed in the goods market.

Liverpool cables said continental buying had been supplied by hedge selling in that market, but reported fair sales of cotton goods to India, with an improved turnover in yarns. Exports today, 22,218 bales. Making 5,636,375 so far this season. Port receipts, 9,200. United States port stocks, 2,004,658.

MONEY RATES DROP SENDS BONDS RISING

OIL SHARES STILL CLIMB

New York, March 14 (A.P.).—The bullish fervor for bonds resulted in something like an old-fashioned market today as interest rates found still lower levels. Scores of issues forged to new highs and the day's turnover of more than $21,000,000 was the largest in months. The 1929 record was just under $30,000,000, established October 29, but on that day the convertibles took a prominent part in the dealings. Today they were relatively quiet.

The composite price of 80 bonds failed to show an increase, due to declines in a few of the rails which sagged on small turnovers. As a group, however, the carriers displayed greater vitality than yesterday and once more there were many gains of at least a point. Issues listed on the bond division of the New York Curb Market likewise displayed strength.

Foreign obligations moved steadily upward, with German issues taking a prominent part in the advance. United States Governments were quiet, although five of the listed securities went to new 1930 highs.

Call Money at 4 Per Cent.

Call money at 3 per cent was the cheapest in about 4 years, while one-quarter of 1 per cent was pared from the rates on time funds. Another reduction in bankers' acceptances, on top of the New York Federal Reserve Bank's rate reduction, reflected the usual easiness in credit.

Many industrials and utilities traded in large blocks. Among the more active issues were International Match 5s, up a point; International Telephone 5s, up ½; Postal Telegraph 5s, North American Edison 5s of 1969, and American Telephone 5s of 1965. Oil bonds rose with the stocks. Phillips Petroleum 5½s advanced 1¼, Texas Corporation convertible 6s touched the new high of 103¾, Shell Pipe Line 5s, Sinclair Crude 5½s and Transcontinental Oil 6½s, with warrants, were other favorites.

The St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s was the busiest rail, turning over to the extent of more than $600,000, principal amount, for a net gain of ¾. The first 5s of Western Pacific, which is mentioned in connection with the possible linking of a transcontinental system controlled by the Van Sweringens, advanced ½ point also on a large turnover.

Southern Railway Active.

Other active rails were Southern Railway general 4s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, Louisville & Nashville 4½s, New Haven 4½s, Pennsylvania 4¾ and the Missouri Pacific issues. The latter, however, declined on the offering of $25,000,000 in first mortgage 50-year 5s at 100¼. This issue was oversubscribed. Atchison general 4s, one of the Thursday leaders, yielded a point after equaling the previous high at 95¼. Sales were small.

The Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s, moving to the stock exchange from the curb, ranged between 100⅛ and 101¾ on a volume of $1,300,000, par value. International Telephone 4½s dropped 3 points in sympathy with the stock. Remington-Rand 5½s, with warrants, rose 1 to the new high of 98. Commercial Investment Trust 5½s soared 3.

Foreign bonds met a lively reception. Brazil 8s snapped up. Berlin City 6½s, Australia 4½s, Cologne 6½s and the German Agricultural Bank issues about 1 each; Pernambuco 7s, 2, and Jugoslav Mortgage Bank 7s, 3¼. German Republic 7s rose to the new high of 108¼. Both of the French Republic bonds improved.

FEDERAL-AMERICAN HONORS W. M. SEAY

DIVIDENDS ON APRIL 1

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

William M. Seay, who has been manager of the Federal-American Co., investment organization of the Federal-American National Bank, practically since its organization, has been rewarded for good service by election to a vice presidency of that institution, it was announced yesterday. He will continue in his present position as manager. Dr. Charles G. Abbott, of the Smithsonian Institution, also has been elected a director of the company.

The company has declared the regular dividend of $1.50 on the preferred stock and 30 cents on the common, both payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 26.

C. Clinton James has just returned from New Orleans, La., where he attended a meeting of the board of directors of the United States Building & Loan League. The annual meeting of the league will be held at Grand Rapids, Mich., on July 29.

Recommendations to Be Considered.

The board of directors will make important recommendations to the annual convention. Among them will be one for enlarging the regional districts and cutting the number from 12 to eight. Under this arrangement the Fifth district, which Mr. James represents, will take in Delaware, Maryland, the District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Tennessee and Kentucky.

There also will be important changes made in reference to the relationship between the United States Building & Loan League and the American Savings Building & Loan Institute. A movement is on foot to have the United States League take over the institute and make it the educational department of the United States Building & Loan League.

Mr. James was in New Orleans during the Mardi Gras and also attended the Eighth Annual Southwestern Group Building & Loan Conference, being one of the speakers on that program. Mrs. James accompanied him.

Mrs. Marietta Minnigerode Andrews will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Bank Women's Club of Washington on the evening of March 25 at the Huguenot.

New Bond Club Members.

At a recent meeting of the board of governors of the Bond Club of Washington the following were elected members of the club; R. Bascom Broun, jr., local manager of Baker, Watts & Co.; Samuel J. Cohen, of Stein Bros. & Boyce, and Robert K. Carpenter, of Hemphill, Noyes & Co. Tentative plans for the third annual outing of the club were discussed. Place and date have not yet been selected.

Vice Presidents Hilleary G. Hoskinson and George O. Vass, of Riggs National Bank, and R. Earle Haycock, of that institution; President John Poole, of the Federal-American National Bank, and Vice President Edward J. McQuade, of Liberty National Bank, are in attendance at the conference on bank management in Philadelphia. Mr. McQuade is a speaker, his subject being "Better Bank Practice."

George A. Garrett, resident partner of F. B. Keech & Co., is attending a meeting of partners in the firm in New York this week.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 14 (A.P.).—Uneasiness over crop hazards West and South, especially drought dangers and Hessian fly perils, turned wheat upward today after prices earlier had suffered material breaks. Reported likelihood of a railroad strike in Argentina and of delay also to wheat shipments from India because of political disturbances attracted notice. There were late advices, too, that export call for North American wheat had enlarged somewhat, today's wheat purchases by Europe totaling 750,000 bushels, with North American barley and rye being taken also, the first since last fall.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, 1½c off to 1½c up compared with yesterday's finish. Corn touched new low price records for the season, but closed unchanged to ¾c higher, with oats at ¾c decline to ¼c advance and provisions ranging from 37c drop to a rise of 2 @5c.

Among the factors helping to rally wheat values today were predictions current that owing to falling off in the volume of world shipments the amount of wheat on ocean passage would reveal a further decrease this week, a circumstance tending to strengthen European markets. In particular, a shrinkage of new supplies from Argentina and Australia was apparent. Meanwhile, dry weather complaints, especially from Kansas and Oklahoma, continued, and in the late trading much was made of reports of heavy infestation of Hessian fly in nine Missouri counties, as well as in southwest Ohio, northeastern Kansas and southwestern Nebraska.

Preceding the consequent late rallies in wheat prices, however, the market here had temporarily been dominated by word of scattered showers Southwest, and as a result of new weakness of Liverpool quotations. A good deal of notice at times was also given to reports that Farm Board auxiliaries may be called upon to pay for more than the present Chicago stock of wheat and to take delivery of carlots on railroad tracks here because of elevator congestion and of possible shipments to Chicago from Kansas City or other leading centers. Tending also to complicate trading at times were reports current that if serious damage to the domestic crop develops, July and September deliveries would benefit most, whereas if no unusual injury to crops takes place May wheat apparently will have little chance to advance.

Evidence of better cash demand for corn rallied the corn market quickly from early declines that came about through scattered selling of futures. Favorable weather for field work pointed to cessation of rural shipments until after corn planting. Oats followed corn.

Provisions were responsive to downturns in the value of hogs.

GETS NEW POST

Harris & Ewing.

WILLIAM M. SEAY,
elected a vice president of the Federal-American Co.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Bulova; Schulte.

H. B. T.—I am writing for some facts concerning Bulova Watch and Schulte Retail Stores. Your reply will be appreciated.

Answer—Bulova Watch has worked itself into a strong position. Earnings last year equaled $5.25 a share, contrasted with $3.94 a share in 1928. The stock carries a $3 annual dividend, and because of the attractive yield at current prices, the stock would appear to be in a favorable buying zone. Earnings for 1930 are estimated at $7 a share. The stock may be regarded as possessing good long-pull prospects.

Earnings of Schulte Retail Stores have not been satisfactory, which accounts for the low price of the stock and the fact that it pays no dividend. Schulte is highly speculative and not suitable for investment.

Pressed Steel; Family Stores.

T. F.—Have you any statistics on Pressed Steel Car common and National Family Stores? What dividends are paid on both?

Answer—Nothing is distributed on Pressed Steel Car, as earnings do not appear to warrant a dividend on the common, although the preferred pays $1.75 quarterly. The common, therefore, must be regarded in the light of a speculation.

National Family Stores' earnings for 1929 were $3.55 a share on 217,317 no par shares, as against $3.35 per share on 90,000 shares outstanding in 1928. The most ambitious expansion for National Family Stores was undertaken during the year, and at the end of 1929, 48 more stores were in operation than in 1928, the margin of profit on each dollar of sales being 1 per cent larger than in 1928. The stock appears to have attractiveness and suitable for long-term holding.

Standard Commercial Tobacco.

G. T.—I am a daily reader of your interesting column. I have been advised to buy Standard Commercial Tobacco. What do you suggest?

Answer—Directors have just passed the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock. Omission of the dividend was due to plans to conserve working capital. Earnings for 1929 were not satisfactory because of a narrow market for leaf tobacco. The company's cigarette factory in Germany, however, is understood to be making progress. Passing of the dividend places the stock in the highly speculative class.

Kraft-Phenix; Continental Motors.

F. T. B.—I hold a few shares of Kraft-Phenix Cheese common and would like your opinion on the recent acquisition of that company by the National Dairy Products Co. Is it advantageous to me? Will Kraft-Phenix Cheese continue to be traded in, or will it be withdrawn from the market? What is your opinion of the prospects of Continental Motors? I understand they are now manufacturing an aeroplane motor.

Answer—Announcement has been made that, under the plan for the acquisition of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation by the National Dairy Products Corporation, the 60,000 shares of preferred stock of the former would be paid off by the National Dairy Corporation for $6,400,000. What disposition is to be made of the common stock has not thus far been announced. Stockholders of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation will meet March 28 to act on the proposed acquisition of the assets of their company by the National Dairy Products Corporation.

Pending such action it is not possible to determine whether or not the acquisition would be advantageous to Kraft-Phenix Cheese common stockholders. Continental Motors, on which no dividend is paid, is purely speculative and not to be classed as an investment. It is true the company is engaged, through a subsidiary, the Continental Aircraft & Engine Co., in the manufacture of a two-cycle Diesel aeroplane engine. Fact that Continental Motors passed its dividend January 2, 1930, is by no means impressive as to future prospects of company.

National Lead.

K. T.—Kindly furnish me with some facts on National Lead. What dividend is paid?

Answer—The company is the foremost producer of lead products. Earnings last year increased 74 per cent over 1928, due partly to the sale of an interest in an English tin smelting company. Profits of $25.49 per common share established a high record, comparing with $11.45 a share in 1928. Sales this year showed a decline, due to general business conditions, and the 1930 earnings account is not expected to be as good as for 1929, as there will be no sale of property to balance the 1929 returns from this source. The common pays $5 annually, and a $3 extra will be paid on March 31 next. The stock may be classed as a speculative investment.

Brooklyn Union Gas.

G. B. D.—Kindly advise me as to the standing of Brooklyn Union Gas. Do you regard it as an investment of high caliber?

Answer—Brooklyn Union may be considered a good investment with a speculative tinge. Net income last year increased 34 per cent over 1928, due more to lower expenses than to higher gas sales. Profits equaled $7.54 a share on 736,718 shares outstanding, as against $8.09 a share on 511,146 shares outstanding in 1928.

There have been rumors of a split-up and a merger with Consolidated Gas, but nothing official has been said. The stock appears to be selling rather high, as the yield at current prices is about 3 per cent on the investment.

WOMEN'S PROGRESS OUTLINED AT DINNER

Strides Made in Business Related to Club in Arlington County.

75 GUESTS ARE PRESENT

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The progress of women in the business and professional world was outlined last night to the Arlington County Business and Professional Women's Club by Mrs. Jennie K. Bowman, at a public relations dinner at the George Mason Hotel in Alexandria.

Mrs. Bowman, who is vice president from Virginia of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, narrated the strides made by business women in recent years. Women's contributions in the arts and science were also told by her.

She invited all present to attend the biennial convention of the National Federation in Richmond in 1931. Mrs. Bowman also said that the Federation of Clubs had established scholarships in secondary schools throughout the country to aid business girls.

About 75 attended. All are prominent in Arlington County circles.

Members of the War Mothers' Club were special guests at the meeting Thursday night of the American Legion Auxiliary, in Gadsby's Tavern, and were welcomed by Mrs. Janet English, president of the auxiliary. Mrs. Norma Williamson, vice president of the club, responded. Mrs. Antoinette Lochwitzky, of Czechoslovakia, gave a brief talk in her native tongue, concluding by saying she was happy to be in America.

F. Clinton Knight, past State commander of the Legion, gave a history of the acquisition and restoration of Gadsby's Tavern, and Mrs. Bessie Beattie, of Clarendon, Eighth District chairman for the auxiliary, reported on the recent meeting in Richmond, and stated that the district conference will be held in Culpaper in April. A report on a recent rummage sale for the fund for the restoration of the auxiliary room in Gadsby's was read by Mrs. Julian Ballenger.

Attorney Frederick G. Duvall, former civil and police justice, unsuccessful candidate in the last Democratic primary for Commonwealth's attorney of Alexandria, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Policemen McClary and Mullen, and charged with being drunk on the street. He was later released on $14 collateral.

Arthur H. Bryant, former member of the city council, and head of the Bryant Fertilizer Co., has resigned as a director of the Citizens National Bank, and Richard L. Ruffner, local attorney, has been elected to succeed him. Mr. Bryant's resignation was prompted by the press of his private business affairs.

Nathan J. Troy, 89 years old, a Federal veteran of the Civil War, died yesterday at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Douglas, 239 Bellefonte avenue, death being due to the infirmities incident to advanced age.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Funeral Home, 809 Cameron street, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon by the Rev. Mr. Sowers, pastor of the Del Ray Methodist Church, and burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Miss Lutise Bolton died Thursday night at the home of her brother, J. H. Bolton, 906 North Columbus street. Funeral services will be conducted at the residence at 11 o'clock Monday morning, by the Rev. D. L. Snyder, and interment will be in Bethel Cemetery. Besides her brother, Miss Bolton is survived by a sister, Mrs. Alice Burnhart.

The Rev. William McDougal, formerly of Faunsdale, Ala., now director of the religious program of Radio Station WJSV, who has been living at the Cavalier Hotel in Washington, has acquired the property at 104 Washington avenue, Rosemont, and will occupy it, with his family, within a few days.

Workmen are now engaged in tearing out partitions and making other necessary rearrangements of the suite of rooms on the top floor of the Donighan Building, at King and Columbus streets, which will be occupied as a broadcasting studio and executive offices for the station. The removal from Washington will be accomplished as soon as the remodeling is completed.

Young Man Hunted In Attack on Girl

Armed with a warrant charging criminal assault, the police of Fairfax County and the District of Columbia last night were searching all avenues of escape for Minor C. Waggoner, 20 years old, whose home is said to be in Vienna, Fairfax County.

The crime is alleged to have been committed upon a white child 10 years old as she was on her way home yesterday afternoon from the Vienna School. BARGERON RELATES COALITION COLLAPSE

Washington Post's Writer Speaks to Collegiate Association.

TARIFF TRADES SCORED

Special to The Washington Post.

Elkins, W. Va., March 14. — The breakdown of the coalition of Democrats and Progressives in the Senate was described by Carlisle Bargeron, political writer of The Washington Post, here tonight in an address to the Intercollegiate Press Association of West Virginia.

The association, composed of editors of college publications in the State, is in its two-day annual session.

Mr. Bargeron said he was not prepared to discuss whether the break-up of the combine is for the country's good, but that the maner in which it was brought about has done considerable harm.

It has always been known that the Senate is at its lowest when dealing with the tariff, he explained, and there has been a fairly general understanding, at least in Washington, that senators traded with one another as "so many cheap merchants instead of statesmen."

"But I do believe," he continued, "that this is the first time that the country has ever seen such an amazing spectacle as that which is being presented to it now. Had the coalition not been formed there would undoubtedly have been the usual references to 'log-rolling,' but by virtue of the break-up of the coalition the full light has been focused on just how the Senate passes a tariff—how one senator goes to another one and offers to vote for something he wants if the senator will vote with him. The country is seeing the Senate, perhaps, as it has never seen it before.

"There can be nothing scientific in this method of dealing with the tariff, unless it be scientific scheming.

"The merits of particular items involved in the trading are not considered at all. Now either a particular industry needs a tariff or it does not. The fact that another senator is willing to vote for this tariff simply because the senator benefiting agrees to vote with him can not make a meritorious proposition out of an unworthy one.

"It is inconceivable that men so honored by their fellow citizens as are senators would stoop to such tactics as these."

Criticizing the Senate is "rather a cheap form of propaganda on the part of politicians out of it," the speaker declared, "but when it acts as it has acted in the past two weeks it lays itself wide open to charges of any kind."

Wife of Navy Captain Fined on Traffic Charge

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 14.—Pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving of an automobile, Mrs. Soule, wife of Capt. Charles C. Soule, of the Navy, was assessed the nominal fine of $1.75 by Magistrate Louis M. Hopkins in police court here today. Mrs. Soule was driving west on College avenue when the machine, it was claimed, swerved, collided with another car, struck the curbing and ran partly on the sidewalk adjacent to the Executive Mansion grounds before it could be brought to a halt.

Neither Mrs. Soule nor the occupants of the other car was injured. Two fenders were smashed.

Parkway Planned For Mount Rainier

Mayor Approves of Project for Beautification of Entrance.

Entrance into Mount Rainier, Md., from the District Line to Rhode Island avenue is to be beautified, according to plans approved by Mayor John H. Beall and members of the town council of Mount Rainier. Plans for a parkway, with flower beds and barberry bush borders were presented by Town Councilman Floyd Mathias.

Councilman Mathias has had charge of the work of planning the parking, which is a strip 155 feet long, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth street along Rhode Island avenue. The parkway is to have a lawn, with flower beds in the center of three plats, separated by gravel walks, and a gravel walk around the area. Japanese barberry bushes are to be planted along the edges.

In a small triangle at Thirty-fourth street, a Norway spruce is to be planted, which will serve as a community Christmas tree. It is expected that the planting will be started this summer.

COUNTY CELEBRATES ELECTRICAL SERVICE

DIVORCE SUIT IS FILED

Police Judge Charles W. Woodward and Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the Montgomery County commissioners, were the principal speakers at the "Birth of Light" jubilee last night at Damascus High School, under the auspices of the Montgomery County Improvement Association. The jubilee was held to celebrate the inauguration of service by the Potomac Edison Co. of electric light to the towns of Cedar Grove, Woodfield, Clarksburg, Etchison, Browningsville, Purdum and Lewisdale.

Capt. Cissel argued the case for the townships when they went before the Maryland Public Service Commission to ask that permission be given the company to extend its service.

The affair began with a banquet, served by the women of the neighborhood. Gifts were distributed by the electric company and the business men of the communities. Mrs. Ida Manchester, home economics expert of the electric company, and Miss Dorothy Warehime discussed the latest developments in home service.

The Rev. Mr. Nicoll, of Cedar Grove, was toastmaster. Mrs. John L. King, of Cedar Grove, was chairman of the committee in charge. Officers of the improvement association, which was recently formed, are J. Dallas Watkins, Cedar Grove, president; Mrs. Elgie D. Hawkins, Woodfield, secretary, and Clarence Day, Clarksburg, treasurer.

Mrs. Ella Smallwood, Takoma Park, Md., yesterday filed suit for absolute dvorce from Lester Smallwood, Berryville, Va., in Rockville Circuit Court, alleging desertion. Through Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, of Rockville, she tells the court that the marriage took place January 5, 1921, at Charles Town, W. Va., and that there are no children.

VIRGINIA PLANNING "ADVENTURE DAYS"

Richmond Groups Arrange for Historical Civic Celebration.

WILL OPEN ON APRIL 28

Richmond, Va., March 14 (A.P.). Richmond's greatest civic celebration, "Adventure Days," is planned for April 28 to May 3, honoring the men and places which had a part in its romantic history. Features, including athletic carnivals, parades in which Virginia's entire history will be depicted, and pilgrimages to historic shrines near the capital are only a few of the events now being arranged.

The grave of the founder of the city of Richmond, William Byrd 2d, located in the garden at Westover, his home, 20 miles below Richmond, on the James, will be decorated by citizens of the city.

Richmond's school population will take part in the parades, and already more than 20 committees are at work on the program of decoration, athletic contests, art exhibits, organization of a guide club, marking of historic shrines and the annual selection of a queen for the festival, which on the last day assumes the proportions of a Mardi Gras.

Plans for several balls and dances for the various candidates for queenly honors are on the committee's schedule. Each candidate will have the support of some local club or organization, and on the last day of the festival each of the candidates will appear on a float in the grand parade. A float-building organization is being created under the direction of Addison Lewis, and the mayor, the city council and the chamber of commerce of Richmond are taking an active part in making the event State wide.

"Adventure Days" were instituted here in 1928 as a chamber of commerce activity to stress the history of the capital of Virginia and to create a friendly feeling toward the Old Dominion throughout the State. This year special efforts will be made to interest all sections in the celebration.

FAIRFAX FIRE BURNS FARM GARAGE, SHEDS

Damage of $8,000 Is Done by Flames; Volunteers Save Old Home.

4-H COUNCIL WILL MEET

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed a garage, poultry houses, implement sheds and other outbuildings on the old Ballard farm, owned and occupied by August L. Albrecht, located about a mile southwest of Fairfax, yesterday afternoon. There was no one near the buildings at the time the fire broke out, which is believed to have started in the garage. Fanned by high winds, the fire rapidly spread to the adjoining buildings and a large wood pile close to the house.

The Fairfax Fire Department volunteers responded to the alarm and on arriving were forced on account of inaccessibility of the farm to confine their efforts to saving the old home. The loss was estimated to be about $8,000, which included the five buildings, about fifteen barrels of corn, tools, wagons and farm implements and a large number of chickens.

At the meeting of the Womens Auxiliary of the Vienna Volunteer Fire Department, at the home of Mrs. F. N. Hagman, plans were completed for the fresh ham and oyster supper to be given Monday evening in the town hall in Vienna for the benefit of the fire department. Mrs. William Bennett was selected as general chairman to succeed Mrs. Arthur Barringer, who resigned recently because of illness. Other subcommittee chairmen appointed were: Mrs. Charles Smith, pies; Mrs. Charles Bruner, tables; Mrs. Floyd Waggoner, coffee, and Mrs. M. A. Wright, salads. The supper will be served from 5 until 8 o'clock.

The auxiliary voted to contribute $350 toward payment on the new fire engine house which is rapidly nearing completion. Workmen have finished putting on the roof, and it is expected that the concrete floor will be laid the first of the week.

Herndon Chapter, No. 55, Order of Eastern Star, held its regular meeting in the Masonic Hall Wednesday evening. After the business session the following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. Esther Thompson, worthy matron; Edgar Gillette, worthy patron; Mrs. Eudora Armfield, associate matron; Dr. William Meyer, associate patron; Miss Marjorie B. Reed, secretary; Mrs. Katherine Kirk, treasurer; Mrs. Alma Breckenridge, conductress; Mrs. Lavina Harrison, associate conductress; Miss Mary Brockman, warden; Julian Thompson, sentinel; Mrs. Virgie Wynkoop, Adah; Miss Rebecca Middleton, Ruth; Mrs. Inez Groff, Electa; Mrs. Mary E. Middleton, chaplain; Mrs. Minnie Matthews, marshal; Mrs. Estelle Thompson, organist, and William Middleton, trustee for the coming year.

Plans for installing the new officers on March 26 were discussed, and it was decided to have an open installation. Mrs. Mary E. Teacham, grand lecturer of the District of Columbia, will assist with the installation.

At the close of the meeting the members were given a surprise when Mrs. Eudora Armfield sent in refreshments which carried out the St. Patrick's Day color scheme.

The School and Community League of Oakton will present a play, entitled "A Poor Married Man," tonight in the Oakton School auditorium. The proceeds will be used for paying off the debt that was incurred when the new community kitchen and 4-H Club room was constructed. The members of the cast are Miss Thelma Speer, Miss Catherine Fox, Mrs. Irving Kenyon, Miss Elizabeth Buckley, Henry Hauxhurst, W. T. Buser, Rennie Pfalzgraf and Delbert Atkins.

At a meeting of the Ladies' Aid and Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church at Vienna the following officers were elected for the coming year: For the aid society, Mrs. Ronald Blake, president; Mrs. Henry Shackelford, first vice president; Mrs. Arthur Barringer, second vice president; Mrs. Deming Shear, secretary, and Mrs. Walter Leeds, treasurer. For the missionary society, Mrs. Harry Blake, president; Mrs. S. C. Stuntz, first vice president; Mrs. Arthur Harkness, second vice president; Mrs. Frank Fouche, third vice president; Mrs. Joseph Berry, secretary, and Mrs. George Miles, treasurer.

The Fairfax County 4-H Club Council, which consists of all the officers of the 4-H clubs, will meet this morning at 10 o'clock in the Fairfax School. The meeting will be in charge of Miss Sara E. Thomas and Miss Belle Burke, district 4-H club agents, of Blacksburg, Va. They will assist the council in making the necessary plans for the annual spring rally day, which is to be held in Fairfax in May, and the annual camp outing at Camp Kahlert, on West River, in Maryland, in June.

The women of the Southern Methodist Church at Andrew Chapel will present a play entitled "The Old Maid's Convention" in the school house at Andrew Chapel this evening, for the benefit of the church. The members of the cast are: Mrs. J. W. Preston, Mrs. Mack Crippen, Miss Agnes Orrison, Mrs. Charles Pierpont, Mrs. John Berry, Mrs. R. E. The meeting of the Fairfax County Democratic committee, which had been called for 10 o'clock this morning, has been postponed because of the illness of Judge J. M. Love, its chairman.

During the month of February the total production of Fairfax dairy herd No. 2 was 732.414 pounds of milk and 25,171.6 pounds of fat, which made an average of 779.6 pounds of milk and 26.77 pounds of butter fat; 940 cows were tested and of that number 111 were dry, 128 gave more than 40 pounds of fat and 53 met the requirements for the honor roll.

The highest herd average was made by that of 29 graded Holstein and Guernsey cows owned by C. T. Rice, of Oakton. They averaged 990.4 pounds of milk and 41.12 pounds of butter fat. The next highest average was made by a herd owned by Jenkins and Wilson which gave 890.7 pounds of milk and 37.38 pounds of butter fat, a cow of this herd tied with one owned by the Kenilworth Farms, for the highest individual cow record. The cow's record was 1,587 pounds of milk and 81.4 pounds of butter fat.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

"THERE seems to be an unwritten law in this house," said Luella, somewhat peeved, while I struggled with the income tax blank.

"An unwritten law? Why, Luella, you know there has never been any law here. That's the trouble——"

She stood behind me while I tried to figure out my difficulties.

"No law? There's this unwritten law I'm telling you about——"

"What's that?"

So that's the unwritten law. By jove, Luella's right. She recalled our old adage, "Never do today what can possibly be put off till tomorrow."

* * * *

AS I look back on it, we always get in under the wire; manage to make it somehow. We do our Christmas shopping on December 24. We see only the tail-ends of all the big parades, getting downtown just before they're finished. We never get to the theater on time. We are late at church, at the concerts—at everything—everywhere. If we were ever ahead of time 'twould be a miracle.

"What would they do to us if we didn't get this income tax in on time?" she asked, looking at the clock. "We've only got till midnight and you've been at it all day."

Slow at figures, the questionnaire had almost set me cuckoo.

"Why don't you get an expert to help you?" she asked, the thousandth question of the day.

No expert could ever help untangle this mess. I doubt if the man who invented the income blank would be of any assistance.

"All I can do is fill it out, mail it, and take a chance on getting fined or sentenced to the jail-house," I said, in disgust, affixing my signature.

"You're going to take it before a note republic, aren't you?" cried Luella, "You've got to swear——"

"Swear?" Haven't I done enough swearing already——?"

* * * *

LUELLA, melting, ran her fingers through my rumpled hair. "You poor fellow, you certainly have done enough swearing to last a lifetime, but——"

"But what?"

"You've got to swear now that this is the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you——"

"So help me Jehosophat!" I exclaimed, rising to great heights of oratory, "If I had the guy who drew up this blankety-ty-blank blank I'd——"

Luella rushed to the kitchen, came back with a hunk of ice, placed it on my fevered brow.

"There," she soothed, "Relax now, and I'll call up a note republic and we'll send this to the White House by special delivery so the President will get it before midnight. He will probably want to read it before he goes to bed."

APPLE FREIGHT RATE CUT RECOMMENDED

30 PER CENT SLICE SEEN

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., March 14.—Reduction of 30 per cent in freight rates on apples from Virginia, West Virginia and Western Maryland to Northern and Middle Western territories, and of 25 per cent to Southern territories, has been recommended by Examiner Arthur Kettler, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in a report he has just submitted to the commission in the apple rate case.

Word of this action, which is of vital interest to growers in the Shenandoah Valley, was received tonight by William S. Campfield, of this city, secretary of the Virginia State Horticultural Society. Secretary Campfield estimated that it will mean a saving of $500,000 per season to Virginia growers, and nearly as much to growers in West Virginia and Maryland.

Secretary Campfield stated that while this is not quite the reduction the growers sought, it will amount to freight savings that will put growers of this section on an equal or even lower freight basis than competing sections of the Eastern United States.

The recommended reductions, which are expected to be approved, will effect an average saving in freight charges from Virginia to New York City of $27 per carload. About $30 per car will be saved in freight to Pittsburgh. Expressed in cents per hundred, the saving recommended is 10½, on the average, to Washington; 11 cents to Baltimore and Philadelphia, and 13 cents to Indianapolis. The apple rate case was started by the Virginia and West Virginia Horticultural Societies more than a year ago. The hearing took place in Martinsburg, W. Va., last spring, and adjourned to Washington. The examiner's report will be considered by the commission, which will then hear arguments by attorneys for both sides. Final decision will rest with the commission, which, as a rule, accepts about 70 per cent of examiners' reports. The date for argument has not been set.

POLICE STATUS HIT IN DAMAGES ACTION

STATE LAW IS QUOTED

The legal status of the Prince Georges County police force is attacked in a suit for $10,000 damages filed yesterday in circuit court at Upper Marlboro by Attorney Charles B. Calvert, acting for John K. Wetter, a State roads commission inspector. The suit asks damages of Sergt. Hervey G. Machen, of the county police, and alleges false arrest.

The action attacks the legal status of the police on the grounds that the act of the State Legislature, under which they are appointed, is unconstitutional in that it "is a limitation of the power of appointment vested by the constitution of the State of Maryland in the Board of County Commissioners of Prince Georges County." Chapter 518 of the acts of the 1927 Legislature provides that the sheriff shall submit names of individuals whom he recommends for appointment to the police force to the county commissioners, the county commissioners retaining the right to make independent appointments. After they are appointed, however, policemen are responsible only to the sheriff.

The plaintiff alleges that the State constitution vests the power of appointment in the county commissioners and that it is unconstitutional for the sheriff to have subsequent control.

The declaration also charges that Sergt. Machen did not act in a disinterested, proper and legal manner in taking Mr. Wetter into custody and that he illegally took him into custody on an attachment from a Washington court.

The declaration charges that Sergt. Machen compelled the inspector to go before Justice of the Peace H. J. Moffat at Hyattsville and that later the "charges" were dropped.

Mr. Wetter was arrested November 16, 1929 in Washington on a charge of passing a red light, the declaration states, and forfeited $25 collateral. Sergt. Machen took him into custody December 15, not in a legal manner as a de facto officer of the law, but made the arrest "willfully, personally, wantonly and maliciously," the declaration charges.

Judge J. Chew Sheriff yesterday imposed sentence on two defendants convicted of driving an automobile while intoxicated in Upper Marlboro branch of county police court.

O'Donnel Armstrong, colored, of Fairmount Heights, and Nelson Pinkney, colored, of near Upper Marlboro, were sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and serve six months in the House of Correction. Jail sentences are rarely meted out in such cases.

Armstrong was arrested on charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated, driving with fictitious markers, without a driver's license and registration card and using a police siren. Fines totaling $30 were imposed in the other cases. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff David Jones, of Fairmount Heights.

Pinkney was arrested by Maryland State Policeman W. T. Booker after his truck turned over on the Marlboro pike near Mellwood. Two passengers testified that he had been drinking. He also was fined $12 on charges of reckless driving, driving without a permit and registration card.

Four men alleged to have engaged in a week-end fight at the home of Upton Crosby, Capitol Heights, were fined on charges of having been drunk and disorderly by Judge Sheriff. Crosby was fined $15 and Harry J. Taylor, East Riverdale; James G. Hazel and Richard Streeks, both of Washington, were fined $10 each. The men were arrested by County Policeman Frank P. Prince.

James River Plan Urged at Hearing

House Committee Is Told Virginia Industries Will Benefit Greatly.

(Associated Press.)

A delegation of navigation experts from Richmond, Va., appeared before the House rivers and harbors committee yesterday to urge the $4,555,000 James River project as a part of the omnibus bill now being formulated.

The Richmond representative said the river improvement will be a great aid to manufacturers and industries.

The engineers' report recommended modification of the existing project to provide a channel 25 feet deep and 300 feet wide from the mouth of the river to Hopewell; a channel 25 feet deep and 200 feet wide, following the cut-off route between Hopewell and Richmond deep water terminal, and a channel 18 feet deep and 200 feet wide from the deep water terminal to the Richmond lockgates.

COUNTY POSTOFFICE CAMPAIGN IS URGED

BALL LAUDS BYRD PLAN

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 809. Clarendon, Va.

Following the proposals outlined in a letter from Representative R. Walton Moore to the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce for establishment of a Federal Postoffice Building in Arlington County, the special committee, headed by A. L. Kelley and including H. W. Beattie, H. B. Mitchell and J. A. Deuterman, yesterday formulated plans to carry the project to a successful conclusion.

It was proposed that all organizations in the county be called upon to urge the Postoffice Department to authorize such a building for Arlington County that the mail could be handled from a separate point and thus save much delay.

The letters that will be sent from the chamber of commerce to the various organizations will stress the point that the associations, after a careful study of the situation, shall indicate necessity for such a building and that no thought be given to any particular location, leaving that to the Postoffice Department.

It is pointed out by Ashton C. Jones, president of the chamber of commerce, that with the county now cut up into so many different communities, a person often has a hard time to determine the proper way to address a letter in the county.

With the location of a central postoffice in the county with a uniform system of delivery the delay that is now experienced will be almost entirely eliminated.

It is understood that the chamber of commerce will continue an active campaign in the interest of a central office for the county, as has been proposed in Representative Moore's letter.

State Senator Frank L. Ball yesterday indorsed the resolution which has been adopted by a special committee of prominent citizens of Arlington County and Alexandria City headed by Gardner L. Booth, of Alexandria, asking Gov. Pollard to request Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd to land first in Virginia on his return to the United States from the South Pole.

"Not only am I strongly indorsing the movement," said Senator Ball, "but I would add that in addition to having the admiral land in Norfolk, I would request that he come to Washington by airplane and be greeted by President Hoover."

Letters were also addressed to John D. Rockefeller, jr., Edsel Ford and Adolph Ochs, all contributors to Admiral Byrd's expedition, asking their cooperation with Arlington County and Alexandria City's committee headed by Gardner Booth in their effort to have him first land in Virginia, his native State.

The county board of supervisors will hold its monthly meeting today at the courthouse. The morning session will convene at 10 o'clock with Edward Duncan, chairman, presiding.

Supporting the resolution adopted by the committee from Alexandria and Arlington County requesting Gov. Pollard to ask Admiral Byrd to land first in Virginia, Mrs. Katherine G. Cohen, president of the Arlington County Business and Professional Woman's Club, who left for Suffolk, Va., today to attend a meeting of the executive committee, will present the resolution for the committee's indorsement.

The citizens of Arlington County are called upon to cooperate with the taking of the school census which is now being conducted by the secretary to the county school board, J. F Hallock.

Owing to crowded conditions at the Washington-Lee High School, more than 70 pupils from the Clarendon, Ballston, Cherrydale, Fort Myer Heights and Columbia Pike Elementary Schools who are ready to go into the junior high school classes will be required to remain where they are until such time as adequate room is provided at the high school

The present enrollment at the Washington-Lee High School is now in excess of 1,300. The school building was built four years ago, with a capacity of 850 students.

The Aurora Heights Citizens Association at a special meeting held in the James Monroe Schoolhouse last night went on record as indorsing recommendations for enlargement of the school building of Arlington County as outlined in the recent report filed with the County School Board by the United States Bureau of Education.

A special committee, consisting of Frank Scott, J. L. Mathusa and W. D. Leary, was appointed to support the proposal for the issuing of bonds to carry out the recommendations of the report.

Another record crowd attended the second performance of the tenth annual minstrel show held under the auspices of the Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department. It will close with a show again tonight.

The proceeds will go to the department's maintenance fund.

Plans are being made by Arlington Chapter No. 149, United Daughters of the Confederacy, for a benefit card party to be given the evening of March 31.

Raymond L. Oliver and Marshall Ney, both of whom were held for the action of the grand jury Thursday by Judge Harry R. Thomas on charges of transporting alleged liquor, were released yesterday on $500 bond each for appearance at the opening of the April term of the Arlington County Circuit Court.

The Ashton Heights Woman's Club announces a bake sale today at the clubhouse, beginning at 3 o'clock.

In the absence of the rector of St. George's Episcopal Church tomorrow, the morning service will be conducted by the Rev. George G. Guiness, who last spring and summer had charge of the services at the church. The rector, the Rev. Henry J. Miller, will conduct the evening services tomorrow at the Zion Church at Charles Town, W. Va.

County Commissioner of Revenue Harry K. Green announces that he will keep his office at the courthouse open tonight until 9 o'clock to assist taxpayers in filling out their State and Federal income tax returns. All Federal returns must be filed by tonight.
